Time to Stand Up and Be Counted, Census Form Should Arrive Friday

If all goes well — if neither snow nor rain in undue quantity nor human error in undue quantity keeps couriers from their appointed rounds — you'll get your census questionnaire in the mail this Friday.

Fill it out and send it in. Otherwise, you're breaking the law.

Princeton University has an internationally famous Office of Population Research. Because it is so famous, reporters from here and far have been calling its director, Charles Westoff, with census questions.

Dr. Westoff, patient — mostly — explains that he hasn't been on the Census Advisory Committee on Population Statistics since his two three-year terms expired in 1978. But while he was there, he says, he did effect two changes on the form.

One is related to the "origins" question. It used to say "Race" but "that was in nobody's interest," Dr. Westoff says tersely. So he got it changed to "Is this person?" and then you fill in what that person is: white, black, Japanese, etc.

"But what will they call it on the census tables?" Dr. Westoff wonders, with a brief chuckle.

The second question concerns the question, "Is this person of Spanish-Hispanic origin or descent?" He convinced the committee that "No" should go at the top of the five-item list.

"Putting it at the bottom was loading the deck," he says. "If 'no' is at the top, fewer will say they're Hispanic than if they have to go through the whole list."

The census is vital for two reasons: the count controls the drawing of Congressional districts (which is why the Constitution requires a decennial census) and it governs how much money is given out in revenue sharing.

"I wish revenue-sharing were distributed on another basis than a precise number of people," Dr. Westoff says. "It would save money in conducting the census, and take a lot of the politics out of it. But $50 billion — fifty billion! — and 100 Federal Programs hinge on it."

Many have asked why the census can't be done through scientific sampling. In the first place, Dr. Westoff points out, the Constitution requires the count; in the second place, you wouldn't get the local statistics that are so important, like how many people live in Princeton?

For example, Princeton's planning board has relied on previous census figures in preparing the forthcoming Master Plan. Knowing the number of minority groups in Princeton — black families, Haitian families, families below the poverty level — is important to local officials.

In fact, there will be a local review program in this 1980 count. The chief elected officials in all local communities and counties will get preliminary dwelling-unit counts just before the census, and

Public Hearings on Master Plan to Begin Thursday; Planning Board Hoping for Adoption by May 12

The Master Plan is ready for the public. The Planning Board has scheduled a series of public information meetings starting this Thursday (8 p.m., Valley Road), which will precede a series of formal public hearings in May. Adoption — with or without changes — will be May 12. A full schedule appears on page 2.

Two kinds of meetings give the public a chance to ask questions or make suggestions for change. The Planning Board may make the changes, if its members agree on them or if errors have been made. These information sessions are, therefore, different from a public hearing, where the goal is adoption of the plan.

Already there is criticism. In a letter to board chairman Margen Penick and a seven-page "comment," Township resident William Starr expresses particular concern about the "conditional high density" designation of the Institute for Advanced Study property on Quaker Road.

"I have become increasingly concerned," he writes, "that the Institute has been working with a plan for developing its property ... without any public discussion."

The draft Master Plan, he points out, specifically requires that environmental factors, proximity of needed community facilities, and adequacy of existing circulation and transportation be considered regarding high-density. But "fewer regions in the Township are farther from needed community facilities, than this Institute land" he says; there is no public transportation passing the area and the property is subject to flood hazards."

"Conditional high density" means that developers would be allowed to build additional units if a certain percentage were for lower-incomes. The Plan proposes a Community Housing Trust charged with keeping prices of low-cost housing from

Comment of the Week

"We're not out to hurt any candidate, or to be divisive, but this idiocy of endorsing candidates in another town...! It's just not rational for Township members of the Princeton Community Democratic Organization to be involved in endorsing Borough candidates."—Gus Escher, commenting on formation of The Borough Democratic Association. jumping after the initial sale.

The plan proposes the 100 acres between Route 206 and Mercer and 110 acres east of The Great Road for high-density; also the 95-acre Lambert tract near Lawrence Township; 100 acres west of Stony Brook and 140 acres north of Route 206 and south of Rosedale.

Multi-family use would be allowed north of the Shopping Center and within the Shopping Center. Mr. Starr proposes expanding the Center upward, suggesting the area is ideal for the elderly.

Fulfilling the requirement that developing New Jersey communities provide their "fair share" of housing for low and middle-income families, the Plan suggests a range of 457 to 1,052 units, to be built between now and the year 2000. Of these 457 would be for low-moderate incomes, and 595 for middle-income. The projected population for the two Princetons, in these calculations, is 30,000.

The size of the community for which the Plan is built, varies according to several factors. State and population-housing counts as soon as possible afterwards for each block or enumerator district. This gives local officials two chances for review, before the census is over.

What isn't on the census questionnaire?

A question about your religion, for one thing. It was asked experimentally in 1957 because many churches wanted data on nationwide membership. But, Dr. Westoff recalls, "All hell broke loose!" Several denominations, and he recalls Mormons, Southern Baptists and Jews, were deeply concerned about the separation of church and state. And the Secretary of Commerce impounded all the punch cards.

When Dr. Westoff raised the question again, it was shot down. Religion is a commonly-asked question in other countries that do a census, he says.

TV Sets for All. There is also, in 1980, no question about television set ownership. It's just assumed everybody has one.

"Head of household" has been dropped, reflecting the changed role of women in the past decade. Instead, there is a 1-2-3-4-5- row of columns. Family members themselves decide who Number One will be. The others define themselves in relation to that person.

In 1970, the highest house value was $50,000 or more." In 1980, it's $200,000 or more."

The short form, with 19 questions, will go to four out of five households. The remainder will receive the long form, with 46 more questions.

Have a good week-end!

Master Plan

Federal highway studies show, by 1995, a population of 31,900 if I-95 is built; 29,228, if it is not. Planners Queale and Lynch showed, in 1975, a figure of 32,000 people by 1990. The Delaware Valley Regional Planning Commission's water studies showed 32,900.

The Plan endorses a 92-A bypass around Princeton, but does not favor I-95 (see story page 1B), foreseeing an increase in traffic of 18 percent if that interstate is connected. No changes are planned for Routes 27 or 206, but Mt. Lucas would become a cul-de-sac, if Stuart Road is extended. Bunn Drive is shown extended to Herratown, and Herratown to Mt. Lucas, Terhune in River Road and Stuart to Terhune.

"Major expansion" of the Medical Center on its present site "would not benefit" Princeton, the Plan declares, and recommends satellite medical facilities in surrounding communities. The site should also be kept for the hospital and not used for new doctors' offices, and the Planning Board should oppose more doctors' offices, the Plan states.

In addition, the Master Plan says there should be no closing of an elementary school until the impact of high-density housing can be assayed.

Some new open space is proposed, including small neighborhood parks at 201 Mercer, 64 Jefferson, 88 Spruce, 250 Prospect, the southeast corner of Nassau

Mrs. Fox Wins in Borough, Tomalin and McGee In Township, Budget Passes by 2 to 1 Margin

The school budget passed by a Borough-Township total of almost two to one; Hannah Fox was re-elected in the Borough; Michael Tomalin and Rosemary McGee won the two Township seats in Tuesday's school board election. Although final figures were not available election night, board secretary William Evans estimated that seven to eight percent of the registered voters went to the polls.

Mrs. Fox received 399 votes to Michael Stefanchik's 300. In the Township, Mr. Tomalin was high scorer with 704, followed by Mrs. McGee with 672. The other two candidates dropped sharply from those high totals: incumbent Rosalind Frisch had 479 and Joe Smith, 423.

The current expense budget passed by 1,144 to 686 -- Borough and Township combined -- although Borough voters gave it only a margin of 72 votes, casting 367 in favor, and 295 against. In the Township, it passed by 777 to 391.

The capital expense budget won in both Princetons by 1,139 to 674. In the Borough, it passed by 363 to 288, a margin of 75 votes. Township voters passed the capital portion of the budget by 776 to 386.

Mrs. Frisch, running for her second term on the board, had waged a highly-visible campaign, with advertisements, flyers and the backing of strong supporters. She made her best showing in District Six -- the Meadowbrook-Clearview area where she captured 83 votes to Mrs. McGee's 79. Mr. Tomalin polled 98 here. Mrs. Frisch was weak in District Five -- the Littlebrook area -- and District Seven, which straddles State Road.

Mr. Tomalin was strongest in 10 -- Bertrand Drive and Herrontown Road -- where Mrs. Frisch was weak. Ten was Mrs. McGee's strongest district, also.

In the Borough, Mr. Stefanchik carried Districts Three and Four, the area between Moore and Snowden, and Nassau to Hamilton. (Because districts for school elections consist of regular election districts combined, the District Nine total is included with District Three, and Four with Five. Separate figures for Mrs. Fox and Mr. Stefanchik are not available for Districts Nine and Five.)

"SRO" FOR BUDGET
In Borough. Give me softball...cut my taxes...buy books... The Borough budget's public hearing was still going on in Borough Council at press time Tuesday night, to a standing-room-only crowd.

Although comments, requests and protests were heated and vigorous, and applause and groans frequent, the hearing was really a kind of charade. The Borough could not possibly make any changes in its laboriously prepared budget in time to send it to the state.

As a curtain-raiser, Council held a hearing on the decision to lease land to Princeton Community Housing, Inc., Richard Woodbridge voting "no." PCH will pay the Borough $300,000 for a 50-year lease, renewable at the Borough's option for 25 more years. The Borough will receive $38,000 in lieu of taxes, increasing as rents increase.

William Cherry, Township Committee member, said the Borough's plans about making access to the library easier, after PCH has built, and library trustee Janice Stonaker said she agreed.

To protests that the Borough was taking from one group -- the taxpayers -- and giving to another, Mayor Robert W. Cawley said PCH was expected to be a money-maker. "The rub is replacing the parking," he commented.

Consolidation, of all things, came during the budget hearing. William Selden, co-chairman of the citizens committee that recommended consolidation, asked what consideration Council had given, in budget preparations, to various recommendations of the committee. The serious nature of the Borough's financial problems, Mr. Selden remarked, was one reason the committee urged consolidation.

The mayor said the Council hadn't had time, but planned to bring the matter up later.

Playground Politics. Although the Joint Recreation Board wanted softball and the library trustees more money, these two bodies were chiefly concerned with one thing: Council's apparent control over line items in the budgets. Why, was the repeated question, don't you trust the bodies you appoint and their professional staff, to make decisions?

Council was repeatedly criticized for re-instating the Hamilton playground program at an $1,100 cost, when the Recreation Board had recommended eliminating it, along with other playgrounds. "Politics" was charged.

Robert McChesney explained that Council justified the reinstatement by setting fees for the use of the playground. He warned a policy of paying for non-essentials would be followed more in the future. When Marvin Trotman asked who has authority to set recreation fees, Borough attorney Edwin Schmeier said the Recreation Board, "but Council can recommend, or suggest." Recreation Board member Gary Grover said fee collection at playgrounds would be physically impossible.

Richard Macgill, finance chairman, reminded the audience that the overall Borough tax rate increase is 15 percent, and that emphasizing the 40 percent jump in the local tax rate is a distortion.

WHEN IT RAINS...

Road Closings Follow. It should come as no surprise to Princeton area residents that Quaker Road and portions of Mercer and River roads had to be closed because of flooding from Friday's heavy rain.

A rundown of the police docket reveals that Quaker Road was closed at 2:45 Friday. Mercer Road flooded over near Gulick Road East at 4:31. Eight minutes later, police received a report that dozens of cars were going around the barriers and getting stuck near Gulick Road.

A minute later, there was a call for a wrecker to rescue a water-logged Honda.

Ironically, a minute before 7, Township police received several angry calls asking why police hadn't blocked off Mercer Road.

"Drivers don't believe the police," commented Chief Frederick Porter. "They remove the barriers and then go on and get stuck. Or create traffic problems with cars turning around."

"What we should do," Chief Porter said, "is ticket them all."

River Road was flooded over near the dump area at 10:50 Friday night, Mercer was re-opened at 1:36 Saturday morning; at 8:36 that morning, Quaker Road was still closed because of debris in the roadway, but it was opened shortly after.

Quaker Road was closed again at 5:45 Tuesday morning following Monday night's rain and by Tuesday afternoon, police said, the road was still closed to traffic.

Mayor Cawley Suggests Funds to Buy Square May Come from Outside U.S.

"The ultimate source of money to buy Palmer Square may be outside the country," Borough Mayor Robert W. Cawley observed to reporters on Monday, tongue only slightly in cheek.

Commenting on Princeton University's $20.8 million price tag for the Square, the mayor said he wasn't thinking necessarily of oil money from Arab sources. He pointed out that interests in Scandinavia and the Netherlands have already located in the University's Forrestal acreage.

Does anybody really have $20.8 million? The mayor said he thought there were a lot of people "with money to burn." And a representative of Palmer Square, Inc., remarked this week that not only was there "a great deal of interest" in the Square, but "quite a bit of activity in the real estate equity market."

The representative said it would be premature to make a judgment until all the interested parties have been interviewed, adding, "the current economic picture, from a long-term standpoint, is somewhat unknown."

Princeton University, which owns 98 percent of the stock of Palmer Square, Inc., has a package of information about the Square, including the price-tag. It contains operating statistics, such as the rents various tenants pay, physical descriptions of the Square, and so on. Carl Schafer, financial vice-president of the University and president of PSI, said the University doesn't have to give the package, with its confidential information, "to just anyone," unless the University is interested in the inquirer as a possible buyer.

Several Princeton groups have expressed an interest in raising money to buy the Square.

marked by a distribution of balloons and literature at Palmer Square beginning at 11. The event is co-sponsored by Mercer S.E.A. (Safe Energy Alternatives) Alliance and Energy Task Force in order to call attention to continued discharges of radioactive gases from the Three Mile Island nuclear plant.

Despite the belief that the potential health hazards exist, officials earlier this month began daily releases of the gases from the crippled plant. Dispersal patterns of such emissions were explored last year in an experimental release of helium-filled balloons in the vicinity of the Three Mile Island reactor. Wind currents carried the balloons to Mercer County within two hours.

The Mercer chapter of the statewide S.E.A. Alliance and the Princeton Energy Task Force are two of many groups formed throughout the nation in the aftermath of the accident at T.M.I. More than 500 people from the Princeton area attended a 1979 anti-nuclear march in Washington, D.C., which drew 125,000 from across the country.

Mercer S.E.A. and E.T.F. are again coordinating bus transportation to Washington for a rally at the Capitol on April 26. Information about the rally and other activities will be available at the balloon distribution on Saturday, or by calling 466-1596 or 921-3058.

Winter Lingers On
Snow inside your
Swimming pool?
That's real, my friend,
Not April Fool

Two days after spring began, winter returned, and some of that snow we kept looking for in January and February showed up in late March. The law of averages, at least, said it was logical: total snowfall for winter, 1979-80, was nine inches, about half what we usually get.

The snow that changed to rain, back to snow and back to rain, resulted in better than two and a half inches of precipitation in less than two days—about as much as we sometimes get in a month. More is likely by Friday, with a markedly milder trend in temperature expected before that. Chances for a dry weekend are fairly good, the Man says.

LET'S TALK ABOUT

PUBLIC ENEMY NUMBER ONE... THROUGH NINE! with Sam deTuro Woodwinds Associates

At a recent New Jersey Turf and Ornamental Institute Seminar attended by some of the Woodwinds' staff, Dr. Louis Vasvery, Rutgers Entomology specialist, predicted the most destructive insect pests facing homeowners in the coming season. The prediction is based on state-wide samplings of the adult stages of these insects, which have already laid this year's eggs. The following, then, are the nine least wanted:

- 1 Cankerworm: the familiar "inch-worm", very high populations predicted this year.
 - 2 Eastern Tent Caterpillar: egg masses are on branches right now especially ornamentals.
 - 3 Pine Sawfly: look carefully at your Pines there are individual eggs on needles of infested plants now; the first stages of the pest cause curling needles at the ends of branches, but the second stage consumes whole needles.
 - 4 White Pine Weevil: also appears on Austrian Pine, Red Pine, and Spruce; attacks leaders of tree.
 - 5 Elm Leaf Beetle: foliar feeder, not the carrier of Dutch Elm disease, but further weakens already severely stressed Elms.
 - 6 Bagworm: most often found on Arborvitae, the large, drooping, worm-filled bags must be treated mid-June before tolerance levels to chemicals build up.
 - 7 Leaf Miner: causes both blotch-like and serpentine mines in leaves of Birch and Holly.
 - 8 Taxus Weevil: also known as Black Vine Weevil; makes distinctive half-moon bites in Rhododendron leaves.
 - 9 Gypsy Moth: this promises to be a bumper year; controls are effective in second stage...around mid-May.
- In addition to these nine, Aphids, Lace Bugs and Japanese Beetles are also predicted in high numbers.

All of these insects deplete your valuable trees of vigor, and in the case of plants in stress from past infestations or winter injury, can hasten decline. Watch carefully and take proper, timely steps to rid your trees of these destructive critters.

WOODWINDS will be glad to supply any information we can on any of these pests, and corrective treatment thereof! Feel free to call us at 924-3500.

Democrats in Borough Form Own Association, Breaking Away from One Serving Entire Town

Several Borough Democrats, concerned about an endorsement procedure under which Township members of the Princeton Community Democratic Association vote on the endorsement of Borough candidates — and vice-versa — and also about the Borough's minority status in the PCDO, have formed their own group. It's called the Borough Democratic Association.

"We're not out to hurt any candidate or to be divisive, but this idiocy of endorsing candidates in another town..." said Gus Escher, who has been serving as chairman of the new group. "It's just not rational for Township members of the PCDO to be involved in endorsing Borough candidates."

With Mr. Escher in the BDA are Nelson van den Blink, who announced this week that she will seek a third term on Council; Martin P. Lombardo, who was defeated last fall in a campaign for re-election to Council; Alan Wallack, who ran unsuccessfully for Council in 1978; Jan Stonaker, who served on Council in the mid-1970's, and ran for mayor in 1975; and Robert McChesney, appointed to Council last year and slated for this year's ballot.

All were opponents of consolidation. Mr. Escher observed that, if consolidation had passed, the matters at hand "would have been moot." However, he said that Borough members account for only one-third of the PCDO membership, and "this colors the approach and levels of interest."

"Not a Rump Group." For example, he said the group feels that such issues as the future of the Central Business District, rent-levelling and the parking garage were not perceived by the PCDO as vital. "It's just the nature of the beast," he remarked.

"We've had excellent leadership in the PCDO. I plan to remain a member, and I've told others in the BDA I think we should all continue to be. We are not a rump group."

Under by-laws of the PCDO, candidates are endorsed by separate balloting of Borough and Township members. A candidate must receive a certain portion of the votes of each membership in order to be endorsed. Mr. Escher said he had discussed the problem with David Klein, PCDO president, and others from the organization, who didn't regard the endorsement question as a problem.

It was suggested that Mr. Escher might write a draft revision of the by-laws. He said this week, however, that he didn't think it was appropriate for the BDA to re-write the PCDO's by-laws.

"If the PCDO wants to re-work them, that would be OK," he said.

Mutual Interests Exist. Although he said the Borough Democratic Association was concerned about what its members regard as lack of attention to Borough interests, Mr. Escher said he firmly believed that there were community-wide interests of importance to both Borough and Township Democrats.

He named sewer problems — both technical and financial — solid waste disposal, environmental questions regarding brooks that flow through both Princetons, and the loop bus. He also said all Democrats should continue, together, to consider endorsement of candidates at the state, county and Federal levels.

One member of the BDA, as illustration, cited a recent PCDO meeting which featured a talk on Iran. Local taxes, local crime and local problems should have been the subject of the meeting, he said.

No primary contest is foreseen by Mr. Escher or Mrs. van den Blink as a result of the BDA's existence. Mr. Klein said this week that the BDA could not field its own candidate because Mercer

All Currently in Office Plan To Run for New Terms in Fall

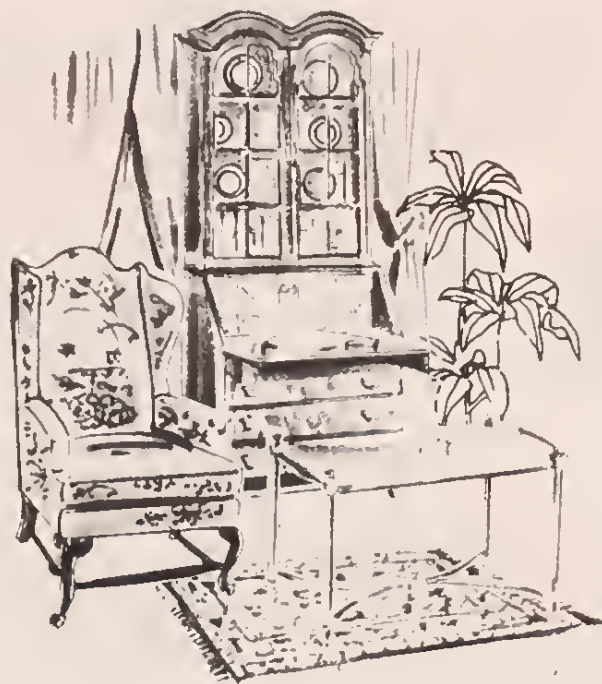

It looks as though all office-holders in Borough and Township will ask to be returned to office.

With the filing deadline for the June 3 primary looming ahead in late April, Nelson van den Blink said she would like a third term on Council; Robert McChesney, appointed in the fall, has indicated that he will seek election on his own. Both are Democrats.

Republican William Cherry is expected to run for a second term on Township Committee, and so is Democrat Kate Litvack.

Mrs. van den Blink said her membership in a new Borough Democratic Association was not a central issue: "As a candidate, I'm interested in everyone's support and I hope I'm perceived as a person who cares about the whole community."

The Princeton Community Democratic Association will meet April 7 at the Unitarian Church, at 8 p.m. At the meeting, those interested in running for Borough Council should confer with Mary Perone; Township residents who want to run for Committee, with Joyce Usiskin.

BOUDINOT HOME "HIT" in $10,000 Silver Theft. Silver flatware worth an estimated $10,000 and an unknown amount of jewelry were stolen last week from an unoccupied home on Boudinet Street.

Police report the home was entered between 7 and 9 Thursday evening. An east side kitchen window pane was broken to gain entrance, they said.

Several pieces of sterling silver, ceramic plates and ceramic art works have been stolen from a Princeton-Kington Road home.

Police received a report on Saturday of the theft which occurred sometime during a 14-day period. The entire house was ransacked and many silver-plated pieces were left strewn about the house, they said.

Entry was gained by first cutting a screen next to a rear kitchen door and then breaking a 12-by-18-inch pane of glass. Det. Samuel Bianco is continuing the investigation.

A State Road home was entered early last week between 5:15 and 9 p.m. by an intruder who broke a ground-floor casement window on the side of the house.

Once inside, he removed a stereo receiver, turntable and speakers valued at $1,400 and a $500 color television set. Police report the first and second floors were ransacked.

SRO Audience Hotly Contests Township Cuts In Budget for Recreation But Without Success

Township Committee passed its 1980 $5.2 million budget last Wednesday night, but not until it had heard strong criticism from residents on the budget-making process. The criticism centered on whether the authority to make decisions affecting a program lies with the governing bodies or with the boards.

Softball and basketball players — men and women — team sponsors, recreation staff and board members joined with friends, staff and trustees of the Public Library in protesting reductions in their requested budgets. Every seat was filled, and there were a few standees for most of the public hearing, which continued to midnight before the unanimous vote was taken.

At issue for those concerned with recreation was the fact that the governing bodies had deleted the requested appropriation for officials' fees in the adult softball and basketball programs. What was particularly galling to players and recreation personnel was the fact that $1,100 which the recreation board had not requested, had been reinstated for the Hamilton Avenue playground.

Peter Ferrara of Harrison Street, wearing his black softball jacket, pointed out that attendance at the Hamilton Avenue playground averaged 14 children a day and that there were some 300 men and women in last year's softball program, which had a net cost of $700. "Where is the logic in that cut?" he demanded, referring to the deletion of $960 requested by the department to cover the gap between what is taken in by player fees and the higher cost of officials this year.

More Questions. Elizabeth Zingg, a former resident who has worked on a paid and volunteer basis with the Recreation Department, told committee that if the fees go up to cover the cost of officials, there will be a number of women who will find it prohibitive to play. "Why have you hired professionals to run a program?" she asked. "If there are budget cuts to be made, why did you not tell the Recreation Board the amount it has to work with and let it decide where this money should go? "Don't you trust your professionals to make the decisions?" she asked, sitting down to a round of applause.

Pressure From the Borough. Committeewoman Kate Litvak said that the pressure for reinstating the playground came from Borough residents and parents who argued that their children were too young to have to go further to a playground. "Quite frankly," she said, "this was a political decision rather than a policy decision."

"We have just so many dollars," said Committeeman William Cherry, acting as mayor in the absence of Mayor Josie Hall. "Are we going to spend them on adult softball or on something for the future of the community? We are in an awfully difficult position. The Borough, which pays one-third of the costs has absolute veto. If they don't want to pay their $10 we can't pay our $20," he remarked. "When the Borough insists it wants that playground..."

Marvin Trotman, basketball coach at Princeton High School, asked Committee, "Is there any moral commitment on the part of the Township for these (recreation) programs?" Mrs. Litvak replied that there was a policy decision that had nothing to do with the playground per se that recreation activities were going to have to be more and more on a pay as you go basis. "The youth program will be asked to pick up part of its share," she predicted.

Senior citizen Walter Conn surprised the audience by asking, "Suppose we put all these kids that play softball out on the streets..." This point was echoed later by Eugene Frank, who questioned the priorities in the budget, specifically the addition of a police officer to cope with loitering in the Shopping Center.

"I'm sorry for the Recreation Department," he said, "but they got a nine percent increase last year, and the Library will get a 3.3 percent raise this year and had a 2.3 increase last year, well below the five percent caps."

"This is the problem with the Caps law," expostulated Mrs. Litvak. "There are critical structural needs. But when your town is falling apart, your roads are in a state of disrepair and you are paying your employees peanuts, what do you do?"

Noting that this was the fourth budget he had been through, Committeeman David Blair pointed out that every year the requests come in over the CAPS and rather than dividing up the necessary cuts to be made on a percentage basis among all the agencies, the governing bodies and administration go over every item line by line to make the cuts. "The only mechanism we have is line items," he said. "If we're wrong we hear about it, but we would be abdicating our responsibility to do otherwise."

Process Criticized. Sandy Bing of the Great Road disagreed. "You should place responsibility for line items in the right hands," he urged. The people who know the most about softball are Don Barr and Jack Roberts who are liasons and therefore closer to the people in the programs. You should trust their judgement. Its the process that creates the problems," he said.

Mrs. Litvak acknowledged that constraints of time prevented scheduling a meeting at the end of January to hear comments from the joint boards on the cuts and recommendations made by the administrators and the governing bodies. In response to a question, Administrator Joseph R. Nini said he didn't think it would be a "problem" to start the whole process earlier.

Before voting on the budget, Committee members agreed that if Borough Council were willing to drop the Hamilton Avenue program, Committee would like to see that $1,100 go toward the officials' fees. Committee suggested that the Library invite energy experts at the University for an energy survey to go over the building to see how it could be made more efficient.

After the vote on a motion by George Adriance and seconded by Mr. Cherry to adopt the budget, Committeeman Blair said gloomily, "It will be tougher next year."

For Township taxpayers, the budget means an estimated tax rate of $4.38 per $100 of assessed valuation. Of this, 62 cents is the municipal tax, up two cents or 3.3 percent from last year; $2.10 is the school tax, up five cents or 2.4 percent, and $1.66 is the county portion, up 15 cents or 9.9 percent.

This translates into a tax bill of $3,066 for a house valued at $70,000, an increase of $154 over last year's tax of $2,912 for a similar house.

The Township Zoning Board will meet this Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. in Township Hall, not Thursday night.

On the agenda is the request of developer Benedict Yedlin for permission to construct 16 townhouses in five clusters on 9.234 acres of land just off Mt. Lucas Road.

In an accident story last week, it was reported that two cars skidded into each other. Actually, a car driven by Mrs. Diane Sidon of Allison Road had come to a complete stop moments before a second car struck her's without braking during a snowstorm.

FASHIONS BY BILL BLASS

At April Annual. Fashion designer Bill Blass will choreograph and present his spring collection in person at the April Annual Fashion Luncheon Tuesday, April 22, beginning at 10.

The benefit for the New Jersey Neuro-Psychiatric Institute will be held at the Institute grounds in Skillman. There will be a tent filled with foods, finery, treasures, antique and modern and indoor and outdoor greenery. Lunch will be served at noon.

Invitations are in the mail this week. For reservations, send a tax deductible donation per person made out to The Association, NJNPI, and a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Mrs. Martin T. Mobach, 97 Hardy Drive.

"GO AHEAD," BUT...

No Final Peer Group Vote. The school board last Tuesday signalled the Peer Group program at Princeton High School to proceed with planning for next year, but decided to postpone a final vote of approval or disapproval until June.

Two board members expressed reservations about the project, which enlists juniors and seniors at the school in a program of support for freshmen. Artia Phillips said Tuesday's presentation by students and adult sponsors, was not in line with the written proposal. In the proposal, the program was to be under the guidance department, she pointed out, whereas it was actually the school psychologist, Dr. Marla Brassard, who had guided the presentation. She also said the proposal had given a figure of 50 students, whereas only about 30 participated.

Princeton High School does not, at this time, have a director of guidance. Dr. Brassard is a co-director of the Peer Group program.

Rosalind Friach asked whether a similar program in Madison, N.J. had been examined and Dr. Brassard said it had. She told the board it is required of all freshmen in that school. Mrs. Friach said she would like to have a speaker from Madison explain the program to the board.

When board president Rabin Wallack asked if anyone on the board felt strongly about allowing the program's directors to go ahead with planning, no member responded. Winthrop Pike said, however, that he was not committing himself to a "yes" vote in June.

VANDALS DAMAGE CAR

Of Red Bank Resident. While a Red Bank resident was attending the high school state wrestling championships in Jadwin Gym on Saturday, vandals outside were damaging his parked car.

The victim told police that when he came out, he found that the right front headlight and parking light of his car had been damaged, the door kicked in, the radio antenna broken off and the right rear view mirror and left front parking light smashed.

Storage Area Visited. An eight-foot square storage area in the basement of a Magee apartment building was entered by someone who damaged numerous boxes and household items.

A check of the items did not reveal if anything had been stolen, police said. The storage area was locked but did not have a roof and was open to anyone who lived in the building, police were told.

JEWELRY IS STOLEN

From Maple Street Home. Twelve pieces of jewelry, including a gold pin with diamond, two pair of gold earrings and a platinum stick pin with diamond chips, have been stolen from a bedroom jewelry box of a Maple Street home.

The jewelry was taken sometime between 1:10 Sunday afternoon, when the theft was reported, and the previous Monday. Police said that the jewelry box had been replaced neatly so it would appear undisturbed. There were no signs of forced entry. Police report that they have received no value for the missing items.

A 24-year-old Trenton resident was walking in the lobby of Jadwin Gymnasium last week among a large group of people when someone grabbed her purse containing $15 and fled. The victim told police that she was unable to see the suspect because of the large number of people.

Just 12 minutes earlier, Lenka Hospodka, in charge of a popcorn stand in Jadwin Gym for the University Food Services department, told Ptl. John Clausen that a large group of teenagers had forced their way past her stand. The force of their rush caused the stand to topple over.

A can, she said, containing approximately $40 spilled onto the floor, and members of the group picked up the cash and left. She was unable to tell who took the money because of the large number of teenagers involved.

Potato Chips Pilfered. A box of potato chips, a box of sour cream chips and a third box of corn chips with a total value of $20 were stolen during the night last week from a food storage area in the cafeteria of the Woodrow Wilson School.

An employee of McCormick Hall on the university campus lost $11 when her leather wallet was taken from her purse which she had left unattended last week in a small office, and a Graduate School student listed the theft of a $60 battery from his car parked in Lot 19 off Springdale Road. Police report that the wires to the battery had been cut.

PAPER TIGER? Don't say that to any PHS team! The term describes the April 20 paper drive of the Friends of Princeton High Athletics. Proceeds will go to the athletic program at the high school. Members of the PHS baseball team will be at the parking lot of the high school Sunday, April 20, from 1-2 to lift papers from your car and put them on the dump truck (donated by Mike Perne). Separate papers from magazines and tie them in bundles, if possible. If you can't take them to the school, call Raymond Wadsworth, chairman, at 921-6937. 'OPERATION DISPOSAL'

It Went Smoothly. Thirty gallons of volatile and potentially dangerous diethyl ether were buried and then disposed of by Princeton University Sunday morning during a trouble-free three-hour operation.

Officials from Princeton and West Windsor townships, had expressed concern about safety to nearby residents when the six metal canisters were exploded.

The five-gallon cans were discovered last winter in a storage room in Frick Chemical Laboratory. Used as a solvent, the chemical can become explosive if stored for more than a year. Those uncovered in Frick lab were believed to have been placed there in 1966.

Security measures for the trip to the vacant university site off Washington Road near Carnegie Lake, where the canisters were to be detonated, began shortly before 8 Sunday morning. The operation was directed by Joseph McAlinden, whose firm in Hopewell specializes in transporting explosive compounds.

Traffic Detoured. Two McAlinden employees began transporting the containers from the basement laboratory room into two red, specially-designed trucks. Earlier, Township police had blocked off entrances to Washington Road and Harrison Street, and West Windsor police had sealed off the eastern end of Washington Road near Route 1.

A motorcade of four McAlinden trucks and several public safety vehicles traveled slowly - and uneventfully - down Washington Road to the disposal site.

There the canisters were carefully lowered into eight-foot holes and detonated at 15-minute intervals. All the explosions produced brief ether odors and two small fireballs. A thick, small cloud of black smoke followed the last explosion.

From Route 1, the blasts sounded no louder than firecrackers. David Mog, administrator of the university's chemical department, had predicted that the chances of any problem were less than 1 in 1,000. Spectators were kept at least a quarter of a mile from the site.

Taking part in the operation, in addition to university, police and fire officials, were agents from the N.J. Department of Environmental Protection and the federal Department of the Treasury's Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms.

Cost to the University -- primarily for trucking fees and security personnel -- was reportedly between $4,000 and $5,000.

5 TEENAGERS CHARGED

With Beer Possession. Four teenagers, 15 and 16, and an 18-year-old driver -- all from Basking Ridge -- were charged Friday night by Borough police with possession of beer.

Sgt. Timothy Huizing and Ptl. Randy Sutton stopped their car near Palmer Square after it had disregarded a red light at Nassau and University Place. The officers reported that the five were drinking beer in the car.

They charged the driver, Russell J. Schuren, with possession of alcohol by a minor. The four passengers were charged with juvenile delinquency and later released to the mother of one who came to headquarters to pick them up.

Trespasser. Firmin M. Romney, 28, no known address, has been charged with trespassing last week on the Princeton University campus.

CONFERENCE SATURDAY
At Stuart School. "Education: Its Special Importance for Black Youth" is the theme of a conference to be held Saturday at Stuart Country Day School.

The school's Student Union for Black Awareness is inviting anyone interested in Afro-American culture, education today and developments in black awareness to participate in workshops on Saturday afternoon. The program will be followed by a buffet dinner and dancing. There is a registration fee of $5 which covers both afternoon and evening events.

Students who would like to take part in the conference should call Terri Jenkins or Maureen Leak at Stuart. Interested parents are also welcome to join the workshops.

$1,000 FOR PENNINGTON DAY: A $1,000 check is presented by Carl G. Weidman (center), Worshipful Master of Pennington's Masonic Cyrus Lodge No. 148, and Lodge secretary James W. Leigh (right) to Trafton Tredick, Pennington School alumnus and general chairman of Pennington Day. The donation by the masons is part of a community-wide drive to help rebuild Pennington School's O'Hanlon Hall destroyed by fire in January. On Saturday, May 17, the community will sponsor Pennington Day, a series of fund-raising events and activities. Founded in Pennington in 1878, the 446-member Cyrus Lodge is located across the street from the Pennington School. "The school needs our help and we want to be a good neighbor," said Mr. Weidman.HOUSING PLAN READY

For Pennington Planning Board. An application by South Main Street Associates to build 16 of a proposed 63-unit housing development was presented last week to the Pennington Planning Board. The board has 95 days to approve or reject the firm's preliminary site plan, subdivision plan and use variance.

If approved, South Main Street Associates plans to build townhouse-style units of one and one and a half stories on a 21-acre site in the southeast corner of Pennington Borough behind the Tollgate School. Each would contain four dwelling units expected to sell for between $70,000 and $100,000 each.

The firm had to submit required plans to control soil and sediment erosion to the Mercer County Soil Conservation District during the first hearing before the planning board two weeks ago.

Partners in the Pennington-based firm are architect-planner Arthur Schwartz and builder William H. Pearson. A Pennington resident, Mr. Schwartz had served on the Pennington Planning Board for ten years.

The proposed housing development, named Curlis Farms, is controversial. Residents opposed to the plan have formed Pennington-Hopewell Homeowners Association and have hired Trenton attorney Lewis Goldshore to represent them.

Opponents maintain the proposal may threaten the supply of water available to Pennington residents and would create additional traffic in the small (.99 square mile) community.

The Homeowners Association also wanted to know if the firm had plans to build an additional 130 units in Hopewell Township on the Howe Tract.

Mr. Schwartz replied that the final sale agreement between owners of the tract and his firm is contingent on approval from the planning board to build. Options to buy an additional 46 acres of the tract are contained in the sales agreement, he said. The Curlis tract extends from the borough into Hopewell Township.

In the absence of a sewer system which has been installed in the borough but which is not yet operational pending the erection of a treatment plant, Mr. Schwartz told the audience that his firm intends to build four, 6-by-20 foot underground storage sewerage ponds to serve the first 16 units.

With a 5,000-gallon a day capacity, they would have to be pumped out regularly. An alarm system, he said, would prevent overflowing and possible contamination.

COURSE AT MERWICK

In Speech Reading. The Communications Disorders Unit of The Medical Center at Princeton will again provide a program of instruction in speech reading this spring.

Sister Norah Clarke, M.A.,

Audiologist at the Center, says that many businessmen and housewives who have taken part in past speech reading programs at Merwick have realized there was more to it than just lip reading. "Actually over a period of time individuals, who participate in the program learn to read the idea the speaker articulates, which provides an opportunity for a more complete and normal life," she says.

The program will begin Monday, April 7, and classes will be conducted for nine weeks at the Merwick Unit of The Medical Center. For further information, call 734-4616 or 734-4610.

SOLVED

The problem: build the toughest, strongest bookcase ever known to man. The solution: build in extra strength. Start with thoroughly seasoned solid white maple and solid walnut cut a full 3/4" thick. Join and strengthen the top corners with a locking joint and glue and brace the bottom corners with screws to prevent listing. Then hand sand the entire case to a silky smooth finish. The result: a bookcase of unequal strength and unqualified beauty. Available from Country Workshop in a wide range of sizes and ready to finish with oil, varnish, stain or enamel. Priced from $53.

University Given 125-Acre Estate and 14-Room House for Use As Retreat—Town-Gown Effort Will Seek Needed Furnishings

ACADEMIC RETREAT: The main residence at "Dunwalke," the 125-acre estate of the late Clarence Dillon in Bedminster, which has been donated to Princeton University as an academic retreat and conference center. The gift includes funds for alterations and endowment for maintenance.

"Dunwalke," the 125-acre Bedminster estate of the late Clarence Dillon, has been donated to Princeton University together with funds for initial modifications and an endowment for the maintenance of the property. Title to the estate has been transferred to Princeton and the gift was accepted as a memorial to Anne and Clarence Dillon.

Clarence Dillon was a leading financier who built Dillon, Read & Co. into one of the world's major investment banking institutions. He died last year at the age of 96.

Bedminster Township officials have approved conversion of the former residence to educational use during a zoning hearing. University President Bowen said at the hearing that "Dunwalke" would have two primary purposes in its new role. "It will be an academic retreat house for individual scholars or small groups," he said, "and it will also serve as the site of day-long seminars, conferences and other university-related meetings."

The estate is about 45 minutes by car from Princeton's main campus. It consists of the main residence and several smaller buildings located on a tract of approximately 125 acres. The main structure, built in the style of a Georgian manor house, was designed by the New York architectural firm of Cross and Cross in 1927. It contains five principal rooms on the main floor, and there are nine bedrooms on the second and third.

In Mr. Dillon's will, virtually all furnishings in the house were given to various members of his family. President Bowen announced that Mrs. Kenneth B. Keating of 7 Boudinot Street has agreed to coordinate an effort to find suitable furnishings for "Dunwalke" and that she will be assisted by Dr. Frederic Fox, Keeper of Princetoniana and chairman of the university's distinguished furniture committee.

"We will attempt to find replacements through gifts and loans," said Mrs. Keating. "We want them to be in keeping with the style and character and purposes of the house. While we need and want as many fine antique pieces as possible, we're well aware -- even at this early stage -- that a good deal of functional furniture will be necessary too."

She reported that generous donations of furniture and cash have already been received from several alumni and noted that "it is a beginning, but this house will devour furniture, and we need all the tables, chairs, chests, sofas, beds, breakfronts, desks, lamps and paintings we can find." One of the most immediate and pressing needs, Mrs. Keating said, is for rugs throughout the house.

Prospective gifts or loans of fine furniture, paintings, accessories or rare books will be reviewed by selected members of Princeton University's faculty and staff who are assisting Mrs. Keating with the refurbishing project. They include Robert Clark, associate professor of art and archaeology; Frances Jones, curator of collections at the University Art Museum; Alfred Bush of the Firestone Library and Alma Eager of the Physical Planning Department.

Princeton Regional School

HIGHLIGHTS

Spring has come with a burst of activity in the Princeton schools. The calendar for March and April is full of field trips, concerts, plays, athletic events and an all-school lasagna dinner. Our column this week highlights some of the special activities taking place at the various schools just before and after spring vacation.

AN EARLY LOOK AT CAREERS

Students at JOHN WITHERSPOON SCHOOL have been concentrating this month on careers - trying to learn more about the kinds of work they might like to do. All seventh and eighth graders had the opportunity of either hearing about a variety of careers or actually visiting some places of work. For the seventh graders, representatives of twenty-six different fields of work came to the school, and each student was able to sit in on a discussion of two careers of his choice. Among the professions presented were those of architect, auto mechanic, detective, dancer, journalist, and veterinarian, along with many others. Eighth-grade students chose one area they would like to investigate from a list of twenty, and went in small groups to such places as Mercer County Court House to learn about law, Forrester to hear about science, McCarter for theatre and Rider College for computers - to name just a few. Many organizations and members of the community worked closely with the Guidance Department to give the students a realistic look at some of the jobs they've been thinking about.

Also at JWS this month the PTO sponsored faculty-student basketball game provided plenty of excitement. It was the Faculty Five vs. the Star Students, and it was a close contest - with the faculty finally winning, 55-51.

I LOVE TO JOG

At COMMUNITY PARK and RIVERSIDE they've found a way to shake off the effects of winter inactivity, and it's a lot more fun than the old-fashioned "spring tonic" of sulfur and molasses. At these schools jogging is the thing. Last year's goal was once around the world, or 40,000 km. When Princeton feet covered a total of 66,500 km, this year's motto was a clear choice. It's "I Love to Jog." Each child aims at covering a distance of three kilometers for each year of age and records the progress made on a bar graph in the classroom as jogging proceeded. Students reaching their goal receive a small iron-on transfer with the "I Love to Jog" logo and go on to Phase Two to work for a larger logo, and perhaps a class or school record. Parents and staff have their own goals, according to age; the school nurse keeps their records and all are added in to the grand total.

INTERNATIONAL DAYS AT RIVERSIDE

At RIVERSIDE March has also been a time for an international focus. Parents and friends of the school introduced the cultures of several foreign countries through films and talks, usually based on personal experience. There were examples of national dress on exhibit, international foods to be sampled and an assembly featuring the music of many lands. An A.P.S. assembly on April 16 will continue the theme of understanding other cultures.

WRITER RESPONDS TO CHILDREN

Claudine Washington and Stephanie Whaley, LITTLEBROOK fifth graders, wrote to an author in "New York" magazine last month to ask where he got his idea for a story about traffic jams. There had been a similar story in their reader. He wrote a gracious response explaining how he gets his topics and researches them. Peter Meyer wrote that he must ask himself, "How can I tell this story so that people will understand what I am trying to say?" He also commented he sometimes has to write the story two or three or four times before the magazine likes it and then "I celebrate." Thanks to Peter Meyer!

"GUYS AND DOLLS" MEANS SCHOLARSHIP FUNDS

At PRINCETON HIGH SCHOOL three performances of "Guys and Dolls" played to near-capacity audiences, and all aspects of the production received enthusiastic praise. Now the hard work of rehearsals and the exhilaration of the performances are over, but the "Student-to-Student" fund of the Princeton Regional Scholarship Foundation is $3100 larger as a result. For many years the P.R.S.F. has sold patron tickets and playbill ads as a means of raising funds. This effort involves students and staff at PHS, committees of close to 50 parents, and over 100 local advertisers and means that several students will receive help with their college finances next year. A happy by-product of a thoroughly enjoyable production.

YOUNG AUDIENCES CONCERT TO BENEFIT SCHOOLS

Eleven members of the Chuck Davis Dance Co., the internationally known group which has been appearing in the Princeton schools this year, will give a benefit performance for Young Audiences of N.J. on Friday, March 28 at 8 pm at the PDS auditorium. Proceeds will be used to sponsor future musical events for the Princeton schools. Tickets will be available at the door. For further information call 921-3292.

APRIL EVENTS: MARK YOUR CALENDAR

The U.S.E. committee will meet on Monday, April 14 at Littlebrook School with guest speaker Dr. Lawrence Kaplan, Associate Professor at Rutgers Graduate School of Education. His topic will be "Population Decline, Prospective School Closings, Public Disbelief and Anger." The meeting is open to the public and parents are encouraged to attend.

On the following Sunday - April 10 - the PTO Council is serving a lasagna dinner at the Italian-American Sportsman Club for all families and friends of the Princeton schools. The buffet will be available from 5-8:30 pm at a cost of $5 for adults and $2.50 for children (high school and younger) and wine will be $2 a carafe. Tickets will be sold at the door or reservations may be made by sending name, number of persons and payment to Valley Road School, c/o PTO Council. Funds raised from the dinner will keep to continue the programs of musical and cultural enrichment which the PTO Council has been providing for all the schools.

DISCRIMINATION CHARGED

By Female Faculty Member. A former Princeton University psychology professor has filed a formal sex discrimination complaint against the University.

Diane Ruble was denied tenure last spring even though her work had reportedly been praised by her department. Her case has become the focus of campus discussions about the number of women professors at the university. Her complaint was filed last month with the federal Equal Employment Opportunity Commission but it was not made public until last week.

Meanwhile, the faculty Advisory Committee on Appointments and Advancements, has recommended two women for tenure this spring. They are assistant professor of English Maria A. DiBattista and assistant professor of Romance languages Suzanne Nash. The committee's decision virtually assures that the two will receive tenure, although the university's Board of Trustees must vote formally on the recommendation at their mid-April meeting.

Ms. DiBattista and Ms. Nash, who were recommended by their department last fall, are two of four women who came up for tenure consideration this year.

Last year, of the five women up for tenure, only one, assistant professor Ruble, was recommended by her department and the recommendation was overturned by the Committee of Three, as the faculty Advisory Committee on Appointments and Advancements is known.

Ms. Ruble, who is now teaching in Toronto, charges that in denying her tenure, the university subjected her to "different and stricter procedures and standards than those previously applied by Princeton University in the case of male members of the Department of Psychology." Citing statistics that show that there are only nine women on a total tenured faculty of 373 professors at Princeton, Ms. Ruble's complaint claims that the university has "practised persistent discrimination on the basis of sex in recruiting, hiring, promotion and tenuring of faculty members."

Dean of the faculty Aaron Lemonick handed out three sheets of statistics at a press conference which he said contradicted those used by Ms. Ruble and the group of professors supporting her. According to his statistics, 13 of 370 tenured faculty members at Princeton are women.

The 13 include a dean and three "lecturers with continuing appointments." Ms. Ruble and her supporters insist those four women should not be included in the statistical analysis.

Janet Martin, a classics professor who supports Ms. Ruble's charge, said she and other professors had asked President William G. Bowen to create a commission to overhaul Princeton's tenure process. Dean Lemonick says that President Bowen feels that there are already faculty committees in existence with jurisdiction over the issue.

Three members of the squad received special citations. Michael Bonotto was honored for having taken the most calls in 1979. A plaque was given to Herbert Fishman for having been a member for eight years while serving as secretary and as treasurer for three years each. Captain Obert was honored with a special award for the most service rendered in 1979.

NAMED 'TREE CITY'

For Municipal Program. West Windsor Township has been designated "Tree City USA" by the National Arbor Day Foundation for the year 1979. The honor is awarded to communities which have met four standards during the year.

These include having a municipal tree committee, such as the West Windsor Shade Tree Committee; a tree ordinance, such as the one in effect in West Windsor; an Arbor Day program which is a yearly observance, and the planting by the municipal tree commission of trees in the amount equal to at least $1 per capita during the year.

Ron Rogers, chairman of the township's Park Planning Committee, said that this fourth condition was reached in 1979 because of the large number of trees planted in the Lewis B. Chamberlain Park. The official awarding of the plaque and flag is expected to

Art People Party, after Year's Absence,
Will Be Back in Town on Saturday, May 3

The Arts Council's Art People Party - absent last year from Princeton's streets and by-ways - will be back this spring.

The date is Saturday, May 3. The theme is "Princeton People Spaces."

Architecture -- old and new -- city planning, spaces not yet filled in, the concept of a community "we must take care of" will be the foundations of the celebration, according to Princeton Arts Council chairman Anne Reeves. Mrs. Reeves said that Princeton University has agreed to invite people who have expressed an interest in buying or leasing Palmer Square, so they can have a chance to see "what Princeton people are really like."

As in other years, there will be music, dance, crafts, arts, theatre, all taking place in the various spaces around the community. Plants to buy, foods to eat out of hand and games to play will be part of the scene as well.

Mrs. Reeves promises a hayride tour of different sections of downtown and Princeton University campus. Sand-box constructions and model-building will encourage the architects of tomorrow, she says, and promises, as well, a surprise event in the Palmer Square parking lot.

Non-profit organizations which would like to participate should call or write the Princeton Chamber of Commerce, 44 Nassau, 921-7676, for application forms.

take place during the 1980 Arbor Day program by Gordon Bamford, assistant director for Forestry Services of the New Jersey Division of Parks and Forestry.

The Tree City USA designation was made to only six communities in New Jersey during 1979.

Poster Contest. This year's Arbor Day program in West Windsor will again be heralded by a poster contest. The contest is open to West Windsor residents and students in the West Windsor-Plainsboro school system.

"Trees in the City" is the theme, and posters must not exceed two by three feet. Saturday, April 5, is the deadline. Posters will be judged on design and originality by a committee consisting of Greg Bancroft, Hank Gurin and Bernt Midland.

Entry blanks are available at the town hall or the Dutch Neck library. Live trees will be awarded to the winners.

FOR 'GREEN THUMBS'

A Seminar on Gardening. "All you ever wanted to know about gardening and then some" is the motto for the garden center to be sponsored by the Hopewell Valley Garden Club on Wednesday, April 9, from 5 to 9 at the Hopewell Presbyterian Church, West Broad and Louellen Street, Hopewell. Admission is free.

Members and friends of the club will be on hand from 5-7 to answer questions on gardening. Douglas Kale of Kale's Nursery will speak at 7 on pruning trees, and at 8, Dr. Lyle Hagmann, professor emeritus of entomology, Cook College, Rutgers, will discuss vegetable gardening and spraying of fruit trees. Maureen Barge and Marie Siewierski of Cook College will describe their tree-spraying research project conducted last year throughout the state.

Among others to be heard are Mrs. Robert R. Green of Trenton, chairman of the tree and arboreta committee of the Garden Club of N.J.; Mrs. Alice Irmisch, who has served on the executive board of the Garden Club of N.J. and is a member of its horticulture committee; Mrs. David Manderbach, a certified flower show judge, who will give information on organic gardening; Mrs. Marcy Farley, propagation of bromeliads. There will be a display of garden books and the Wildflower Junior Gardeners of the club will be on hand to babysit.

Eighth Graders at John Witherspoon School Learn What Part Computers Will Play in Their Lives in New Teaching Program

"We can't afford to have kids in today's world not know about computers and how they affect our lives," say Martin Schneiderman and Keneth Bowers, the two members of Princeton's Regional school staff who have developed a Computer Literacy Pilot Program for the middle school.

Earlier in the school year, the two had both teachers and students in a class. Now, there are three teachers -- John Zorzi, Phyllis Caras and Barbara Orosz -- who are on their own with 22 eighth-graders. Mr. Schneiderman and Mr. Bowers are on hand to guide the program. Students and teachers meet half an hour every day, for 29 days in the small balcony rooms above the middle school library.

Turning kids into programmers is not the idea, although they learn to write programs in BASIC. But with 50 percent of the jobs out there related to computers in some way, Mr. Schneiderman says, it's vital for kids to have hands-on experience in working with one, learning to load, run and save programs, for example.

"Awareness," "literacy" and "application," in logical progression, eventually from kindergarten through 12th-grade, are the goals of the computer literacy pilot. Eighth-graders -- and teachers -- learn how to use the Apple II micro-computer. They write simple programs based on whatever research they may be doing in other classes, or look up things related to computers and prepare a bibliography.

Solving Business Problems. They play "Lemonade Stand" which simulates your own business. You're given $50 in the bank, and sugar from the kitchen. How much do you want to spend on advertising posters at so much a poster?

See if you can predict the weather, because if its rains and your lemonade spoils, you may sustain a loss. If you push a button that spends too much on advertising posters -- well, you'd better think again.

Mr. Schneiderman and Mr. Bowers have assembled a library of software, but there are problems because so much of the material is games. You can learn from games, however. In one, you must get the correct answer to a whole number math problem before you can move your space-craft.

In "Car Jump," you make your car ramp-jump over buses. Every correct answer to calculations of area, increases the number of inches your car can clear Smart Computers. Students watched a video tape on artificial intelligence -- "Can computers think?" -- with demonstrations from both sides of the argument, and why the concept could be ludicrous.

"But we have a chess program that can heat the pants off kids in this school," Mr. Schneiderman smiles.

A medical diagnosis tape show how doctors can use computers for diagnosis. In another tape, you design an aircraft wing, entering specifications on curvature, size and so on, and it comes up on the screen exactly to your specs.

On field trips, students visited the First National Bank of Princeton, where Elizabeth Smith, head of the accounting department, gave them a tour, they went to Fox

Morris Employment Agency, "an electronic office." And one day, Mr. Schneiderman discovered a computer terminal at Turney Motors, which the mechanic used to order a part for the Schneiderman car.

A Pilot Program. The two sponsors developed a test which they administered to students via the computer, obtaining feed-back on scores. Students also watch a video tape and answer key questions as the film goes along.

It is, of course, a pilot program -- an experiment. Students were tested before, and will be tested after, the 29-day cycle to see what level of "Computer Literacy" they attained. The program itself will be tested to find out what teachers think of it, how it could be staffed in the future, how well the hardware was used and how well it held up and so on

The pilot was financed from last year's school budget. The estimated $4,555 for hardware and software came in at several hundred dollars less because of competitive bidding. The program has two Apple II 16K micro-computers, a printer interface card, two Sharp tape recorders, a Decwriter, software, tapes and texts. All the equipment can be adapted for use at either elementary or high school level.

The school board could decide to eliminate the program, keep it and modify it, or even enhance it. The whole purpose of a pilot, as Mr. Schneiderman observes, is to learn and to modify as a result of what you learn.

Like the time somebody tripped over a wire, accidentally pulled the plug -- and wiped out a whole program.

Pennsylvania Firm Files Application to Bring Cable TV to Both Municipalities in Princeton

Princeton has had its first application for a cable TV franchise. Penn Communications, Inc., of York, Pa., filed Thursday with both Borough and Township governments.

Under New Jersey laws regulating cable television franchises, the two governing bodies must hold a public hearing no sooner than 60 days from the filing of the application, or later than 90 days. At least 45 days before the hearing date, municipalities must advertise the public hearing schedule and declare that other applications are welcome. A second advertisement must be published no more than 14 days before the hearing, and no fewer than seven days before the date. Additional applications may be filed up to 15 days before the hearing, then no more are accepted.

"We're very excited by Princeton and have a lot of faith in its big growth potential," said Walter S. West, the firm's general manager, after the filing of the application.

He explained that Penn Communications applied to both Borough and Township—and will hook them together—because some houses straddle the line, many next-door neighbors live in different municipalities, and it will be necessary to string cables in one municipality for use in the other.

"Both municipal administrators have told us they don't think it will present a problem," Mr. West added.

The Menù. His firm would probably provide Princeton with 20 channels. Householders would pay a one-time $25 installation fee and $7.50 monthly for the basic service. In addition, they could purchase two "premium" channels.

One, the "HBO," or Home Box Office, provides first-run movies without commercials, for an additional $8.50 monthly. The second, would provide live Spectrum sports—and some movies—for $11.95 more, a higher cost because most of the programs would be live sports events.

Customers could have any combination of these, but would be required to have the basic 20 channels. Among the 20, Mr. West said, could be one or two for educational television, and a community-interest channel for various local events. Others would come from Baltimore, New York, Philadelphia or other cities.

The community receives three percent of the gross revenue. Mr. West said the firm would need at least half the homes in Borough and Township in order to make the investment pay. He said he anticipated no problem in selling the service.

Construction is costly for the company, he pointed out, amounting to about half a million. Penn uses a satellite system, which Mr. West says produces clear reception. The company must build a tower with an antenna, and programs are beamed to the antenna from a satellite. Cables are run from the tower system to individual homes.

He said that Penn's engineers would confer with municipal engineers about the best location for a tower. He estimated the installation to be about as tall as the present police tower at Borough Hall. Several sites would be chosen as options, he said, and the tower might be built in either Township or Borough, depending on the best spot for reception and the best spot in the opinion of local officials. Land would be leased or purchased.

Penn Communications constructed the cable TV system for Pennsylvania, and is constructing facilities in Delaware for Middletown, Delaware City and Odesa. Mr. West said that an office would be established in Princeton.

SEMINARS CONTINUE

On Women In Business. The final two sessions in a series of seminars on "Women in Their Own Business" will be held this Thursday and next at the Nassau Inn. The sessions are sponsored by the U.S. Small Business Administration in cooperation with the Rutgers Small Business Development Center, the Nassau Inn and Shirlee Wenzel & Co. of Pennington.

This Thursday, Dr. Mary Ann Bartusis, a Bucks County psychiatrist, will discuss "The Success Factor" in business. Next Thursday, April 3, the focus will be on "Knowing Your Professionals," presented as a panel by Florence Steel, an attorney who is also president of the Southern Division of N.J. Women Business Owners; Mildred Teltz, an accountant in Hamilton Square, and Ms. Wenzel, presenting the viewpoint of a public relations expert.

Ms. Wenzel reports that some 200 women have signed up for the seminars, which have been held over the past four weeks. The group is composed of women already in business as well as women contemplating establishing their own, Ms. Wenzel says.

Aristides W. Georgantas, senior vice-president of Princeton Bank's Corporate Banking Group, led the first session on "Financing Your Business." He told the group that the challenge of the 80's might include the possibility that women will achieve their expectations at someone else's expense. He discussed the motivation factor, the risks and the difficulties that will be encountered in the financing of a business in today's economic environment.

For further information, call Ms. Wenzel at 737-9200.

SALES UP, NET DROPS

At Applied Data Research. Applied Data Research, the software computer firm based on Route 206 in Montgomery township, has announced record revenues of $28,686,306 from operations, up 27 percent from the previous year.

Net earnings were $524,657, or 38 cents per share compared to $1,976,591, or $1.41 per share in 1978. Although revenue for 1979 was on target, net earnings were disappointing, President John R. Bennett said.

Mr. Bennett said that he viewed 1979 as a year of building for the future and that the necessary start-up efforts were primarily responsible for results well below expectations. The DATACOM product line operated unprofitably in 1979, its first full year with ADR. Now, however, the product line is fully integrated into the Software Products Division with very favorable forecasts for the DATACOM products in the immediate future, Mr. Bennett reported.

The company also expended a significant amount of money to fund the research and development necessary for an on-line management information system for the cable television industry. It is expected that this new product will begin to generate revenues early in 1980 and is budgeted to contribute modestly to corporate profits during the year.

The company's Software Products Division continued its strong revenue and earnings performance during 1979. It now provides an expanded integrated product line, designed to continue its favorable performance into the 1980's.

OFFICE BUILDING?

Proposed for Alexander. A five-story office building has been proposed for the vacant property on Alexander Street next to Holt and Morgan Associates. It is the former Boice Lumber property.

Following a "concept review" with the Planning Board Monday night, Alexander Office Associates, Ltd. (Alvin Gershen) decided to re-design the structure and return, formally, to the board in April.

The building conforms to Township regulations but does not have enough parking spaces or loading space. Although its five stories are in accord with the ordinance, Planning Board members said the building is too high for its location on an entry-way into Princeton.

There are no specific tenants for the building, but a bank has expressed interest, and the ground floor is designed with a bank in mind. On the 1.68 acres, the 52,175-square-foot building has 47,513 square feet for offices and 157 parking spaces.

Commerce luncheon meeting on Wednesday, April 9, at noon at the Nassau Inn.

The guest speaker will be A. Gilbert Heebner, executive vice-president of the Philadelphia National Bank and an economist. Reservations are $6 and may be made through the Chamber office, 921-7676. The public is invited.

GROUND BROKEN

For Alexander Road Office. The Hillier Group, Architects, has broken ground for its new building in Alexander Park, its office complex development on Alexander Road in West Windsor Township. The new 31,000-square foot structure will be partially occupied by The Hillier Group's staff of 102, the remaining portion of the building being available for rental.

J. Robert Hillier said, "This new building represents a giant step forward, both for the firm and in architectural design. It is responsive to the new energy concerns of today and will feature the latest energy-conserving strategies in the industry. It follows the latest energy codes in terms of window area and insulation values of walls."

Initially, the building will have a solar hot water system. The structure has also been designed to accommodate a future active solar heating and air conditioning system once the economics of such systems are reasonable.

TWO NEW ACCOUNTS

For Advertising Firm. John Monteleone Associates, a Princeton-based marketing, advertising, and public relations firm, has announced the acquisition of two new clients, Enertec, Inc. of Lansdale, Pa., and Hughes-Foulkrod Construction Company, Plymouth Meeting, Pa.

Contracted services for Enertec include planning and supervision of a national, direct mail and space advertising campaign. Services for Hughes-Foulkrod Construction include corporate public relations, preparation of new company sales brochure and management of trade shows and exhibits. Nancy Welsh, who recently joined John Monteleone Associates, is supervisor of these accounts.

In 1976, he was promoted to Director, Marketing and Technical Information Services, the position he held until his new appointment.

Dr. Leighton E. Cluff, 7 Beechtree Lane, a vice-president of The Robert Wood Johnson Foundation since 1976, has been elected to the new post of executive vice-president.

Prior to joining the Foundation, Dr. Cluff, had followed a career in academic medicine, first at The Johns Hopkins University where he became a professor of medicine and then at The University of Florida where for 10 years he was professor and chairman of the Department of Medicine. At Florida he was instrumental in founding a department of community health and family medicine, and led in the development of a medical care network covering almost 3,000 square miles in the rural north central portion of that state.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Readers of the story in last week's TOWN TOPICS concerning the proposal of the Save-The-Playhouse Study Fund, Inc., for full-time programming of live performances and films at the Playhouse may have assumed that the projected budget and minimal annual deficit for such an operation, as described in the story, reflect the views of the background sources named. At least in the case of the McCarter Theatre Company, such an assumption would be incorrect.

Many of us at McCarter Theatre, including the Special Programming Director and Managing Director, have reviewed the document titled "A Framework for Playhouse Programming" that is being distributed by the Save-The-Playhouse Study Fund, Inc. It is our judgment that the budgets for expenditures are unrealistically low in almost all areas including size of staff, salary levels, production costs (artists' fees, labor costs, programs, advertising, tickets, etc.), and general operating costs (telephone, office machines and supplies, professional services, etc.), while the projected income from ticket sales is unrealistically high.

McCarter Theatre's Managing Director estimates that a project such as the one outlined by the Save-The-Playhouse Study Fund, Inc. would almost certainly incur an operating deficit of $200,000 annually, and possibly much more.

No Time for Silence.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

When it comes to the support of its public library and the people who help run it, Princeton is no different from the average New Jersey town. Where are those mountains of letters protesting the effects of the new library budget? Why, with few exceptions, are the many patrons of the Princeton Public Library so strangely silent?

If the users of PPL take for granted the many services it quietly provides for the community, they may awake one day to find that PPL isn't the same any more. Then it may be too late to do anything about it.

Thoughts on Saving Gasoline.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

I hope you will have space for these two suggestions, both dealing with gasoline:

1. Cruising for gas on a weekend is wasteful of gas, time and money. It would be simple to keep one station open in town, and leave a sign at the other stations saying where that one is.

2. The specter of gas lines, if a crisis comes again, is a sort of national nightmare. Instead of going about our jobs in a time of emergency, we have to idle in the line-up, burning gas, time and tolerance, and sometimes jamming traffic.

Why gas lines? Is there no other way to take gasoline to cars? Let the distributors outfit small tank trucks to serve cars parked in shopping malls or corporate parking lots. Perhaps even at home. It can be worked out.

Perhaps the distributors would not welcome such suggestions. I don't know. But I think the public interest could be served better, and the windfall companies ought to help.

FENWICK TO SPEAK

To Memorial Association. The Honorable Millicent Fenwick, U.S. Representative of New Jersey's Fifth District, will be the principal speaker at the annual meeting of the Princeton Memorial Association Sunday at 2:30 in the Unitarian Church, Cherry Hill and State Roads. Her topic will be "Consumer Protection and the Funeral Industry."

For several years hearings of the Federal Trade Commission into alleged unethical practices of the funeral industry have been making headlines, but the House of Representatives recently voted to exempt the funeral industry from regulation by the Federal Trade Commission. Although she has been known as a staunch advocate for consumer protection, Mrs. Fenwick was a leader in the decision to remove funerals from federal control.

She will be followed on the program by Charles Mysak, Deputy Attorney General of New Jersey, who is completing a term with the Board of Mortuary Science in Newark.

Before introducing the guest speakers, Thomas Cook, president of the P.M.A., will conduct a brief business meeting. A voluntary non-profit corporation, the Memorial Association seeks to offer its members the information and the encouragement they need to plan for death. With some 1600 members drawn principally from Mercer County, the Princeton society, founded in 1957, is the oldest of its kind in the state.

BULLETIN NOTES

A first-hand account of Sister Miriam Winter's experiences in a Cambodian refugee camp in Thailand this past winter will be offered in the Main Lounge of Princeton Seminary's Campus Center on Wednesday, April 2, at 8. The "Singing Nuo" will accompany her story with slides. The public is invited.

Sister Miriam, a candidate for the Ph.D. degree at Princeton Seminary, recently returned from two months as a member of a Medical Mission Sisters team at Camp SaKaeo. Her special interest was in healing the emotional disorders of persons traumatized by the Vietnamese terrorist tactics, a concern in which her music became an invaluable tool. Since coming back to this country she has taken up her duties as Associate Professor of Liturgy, Spirituality and Worship at Hartford Theological Seminary.

Jeremiah People will present a new musical comedy entitled "Home Again: Portrait of a Family" on Sunday at 6:30 at the Nassau Christian Center, Nassau and Chambers Street.

The program combines comic and dramatic scenes, original music and monologues. It stresses the importance of the family unit and is designed to confront Christians with their responsibility for keeping that unit Christ-centered.

Jeremiah People is currently on a nine-month tour of performances across the United States. The group has recorded six albums over the last eight years and performed on several national television programs and a movie, "Say It With Music."

MEMORIAL SERVICE SET

For Munroe Wade. A public memorial service for A. Munroe Wade, who died on February 25, will be held in the Princeton University Chapel on Friday at 4:30. The Symphonic Choir from Westminster Choir College will sing.

His love of theatre as actor, writer, and director began during his undergraduate Princeton University years. He was president of the Triangle Club in 1929-30 and wrote "The Golden Dog" with Joshua Logan, the first Triangle show to be played in McCarter Theatre. From then on he acted in numerous shows at St. John Terrell's Music Circus, Bucks County Playhouse, with the Princeton University Players, McCarter Repertory and Blackfriars Theatre off-Broadway.

He was later named vice-president and general manager of the broadcasting company's radio station, WCHL.

In 1975 he joined Nassau Broadcasting as sales manager for its FM station, WPST in Trenton. He was subsequently promoted to vice president for sales development. He was an active member of the Trenton Rotary Club and the Lawrenceville Presbyterian Church.

Surviving are his wife, Pamela Keaton Geiger; two sons, J. Keaton Geiger and Phillip G. Geiger Jr., and a daughter, Kathryn E. Geiger, all at home; his mother, Mrs. Scott Cooper of North Carolina; and a brother, John F. Geiger of Arkansas.

A memorial service was held in the Lawrenceville Presbyterian Church, the Rev. Dana Fearon III, pastor, and the Rev. Thomas J. Weber, assistant to the president of the New Jersey Synod of the Lutheran Church of America, officiating. Burial was in Chapel Hill Cemetery. Memorial contributions may be made to the Memorial Fund of the Lawrenceville Presbyterian Church.

Mrs. Martha Bielert, 89, of Route 518, Blawenburg, died March 21 in the Merwick Unit of Princeton Medical Center. A native of Germany, she lived in Blawenburg for the past 38 years.

Widow of Gustav Bielert, she is survived by a nephew Ralph Hertwig of Honduras.

The service was scheduled to be held this Wednesday at 11:30 at the Cromwell Memorial Home, 71 East Prospect Street, Hopewell, the Rev. Robert Beringer, pastor of the First United Presbyterian Church, officiating. Burial will be in Blawenburg Cemetery.

She was born in Petroranello, Italy, and had lived in Princeton since 1915. She was a communicant of St. Paul's Church and a member of the Catholic Daughters of America, Court Moran No. 378.

Surviving are her husband, Frank S. Perna Sr.; two sons, Frank S. Jr. of Kendall Park and Theodore Perna of Princeton; two sisters, Mrs. Lucille Fassanella and Mrs. Mary Squitieri, both of Princeton; two brothers, A. Donald of Atlanta, Ga., and Alexander Pirone of Miami, Fla.; and four grandchildren.

Mass of Christian Burial was celebrated at St. Paul's Church with entombment in Franklin Mausoleum. Arrangements were under the direction of the Kimble Funeral Home.

MUSIC! COMEDY! DRAMA!

Jeremiah People

The Jeremiah People, a unique combination of individuals with a necessary and timely message for today's church, will be appearing in concert on Sunday, March 30th at 6:30 P.M. at Nassau Christian Center, located on the corner of Nassau and Chambers Sts. in Princeton, N.J.

Now in their eighth year, these 9 Christian young people ask honest questions and offer positive solutions. Using short comic sketches and original music, they have been challenging people to turn back to Christ's love.

Shorter Hours at Library

Effective this Sunday, the Public Library will be closed all Sundays and will close at 5:30 on Thursdays. These reductions in service follow cuts in the Library's 1980 operating budget.

The revised schedule of hours is Monday through Wednesday, 9-9, and Thursday, Friday, Saturday, 9-5:30.

This new schedule, reducing the Library's service from 69½ hours a week to 61½, comes when the Library is having one of its busiest years. More than 1,100 books a day were borrowed last month. The Library has 19,000 registered borrowers, 58 percent from the Township and 42 percent from the Borough.

Books and other materials may be returned to the Library through the Bookdrop at the front entrances when the Library is closed.

END FOR I-95 SEEN

County Opposes Further Construction. Mercer County Executive Bill Mathesius has announced Mercer County's opposition to the construction of Interstate Route 95 through Hopewell Township in a letter to State Department of Transportation Commissioner Louis J. Gambaccini, recommending that the State pursue de-designation. Mr. Mathesius indicated that based on review of the Technical Support Documentation for I-95, it was clear that this proposed highway would not adequately relieve traffic problems in Mercer County.

The County Planning Board has also accomplished a review of the Transportation Improvement Program and Mr. Mathesius said it was determined that there are other major projects in the county which should be given priority and accelerated to meet immediate and present traffic problems. The Planning Board unanimously adopted a resolution calling for the removal of the construction of Interstate Route 95 as a project worth further consideration.

The recommendation of de-designation will be made a part of a public statement to the Delaware Valley Regional Planning Commission which has included I-95 on its proposed Transportation Improvement Program.

Among the projects which Mr. Mathesius recommended that I-95 monies be used for are:

- The widening and resurfacing of Route 571, Princeton-Hightstown Road from Princeton Junction to Route 130 in East Windsor;

- The study and construction of Route 92 with particular emphasis on the Hightstown and Princeton bypasses;

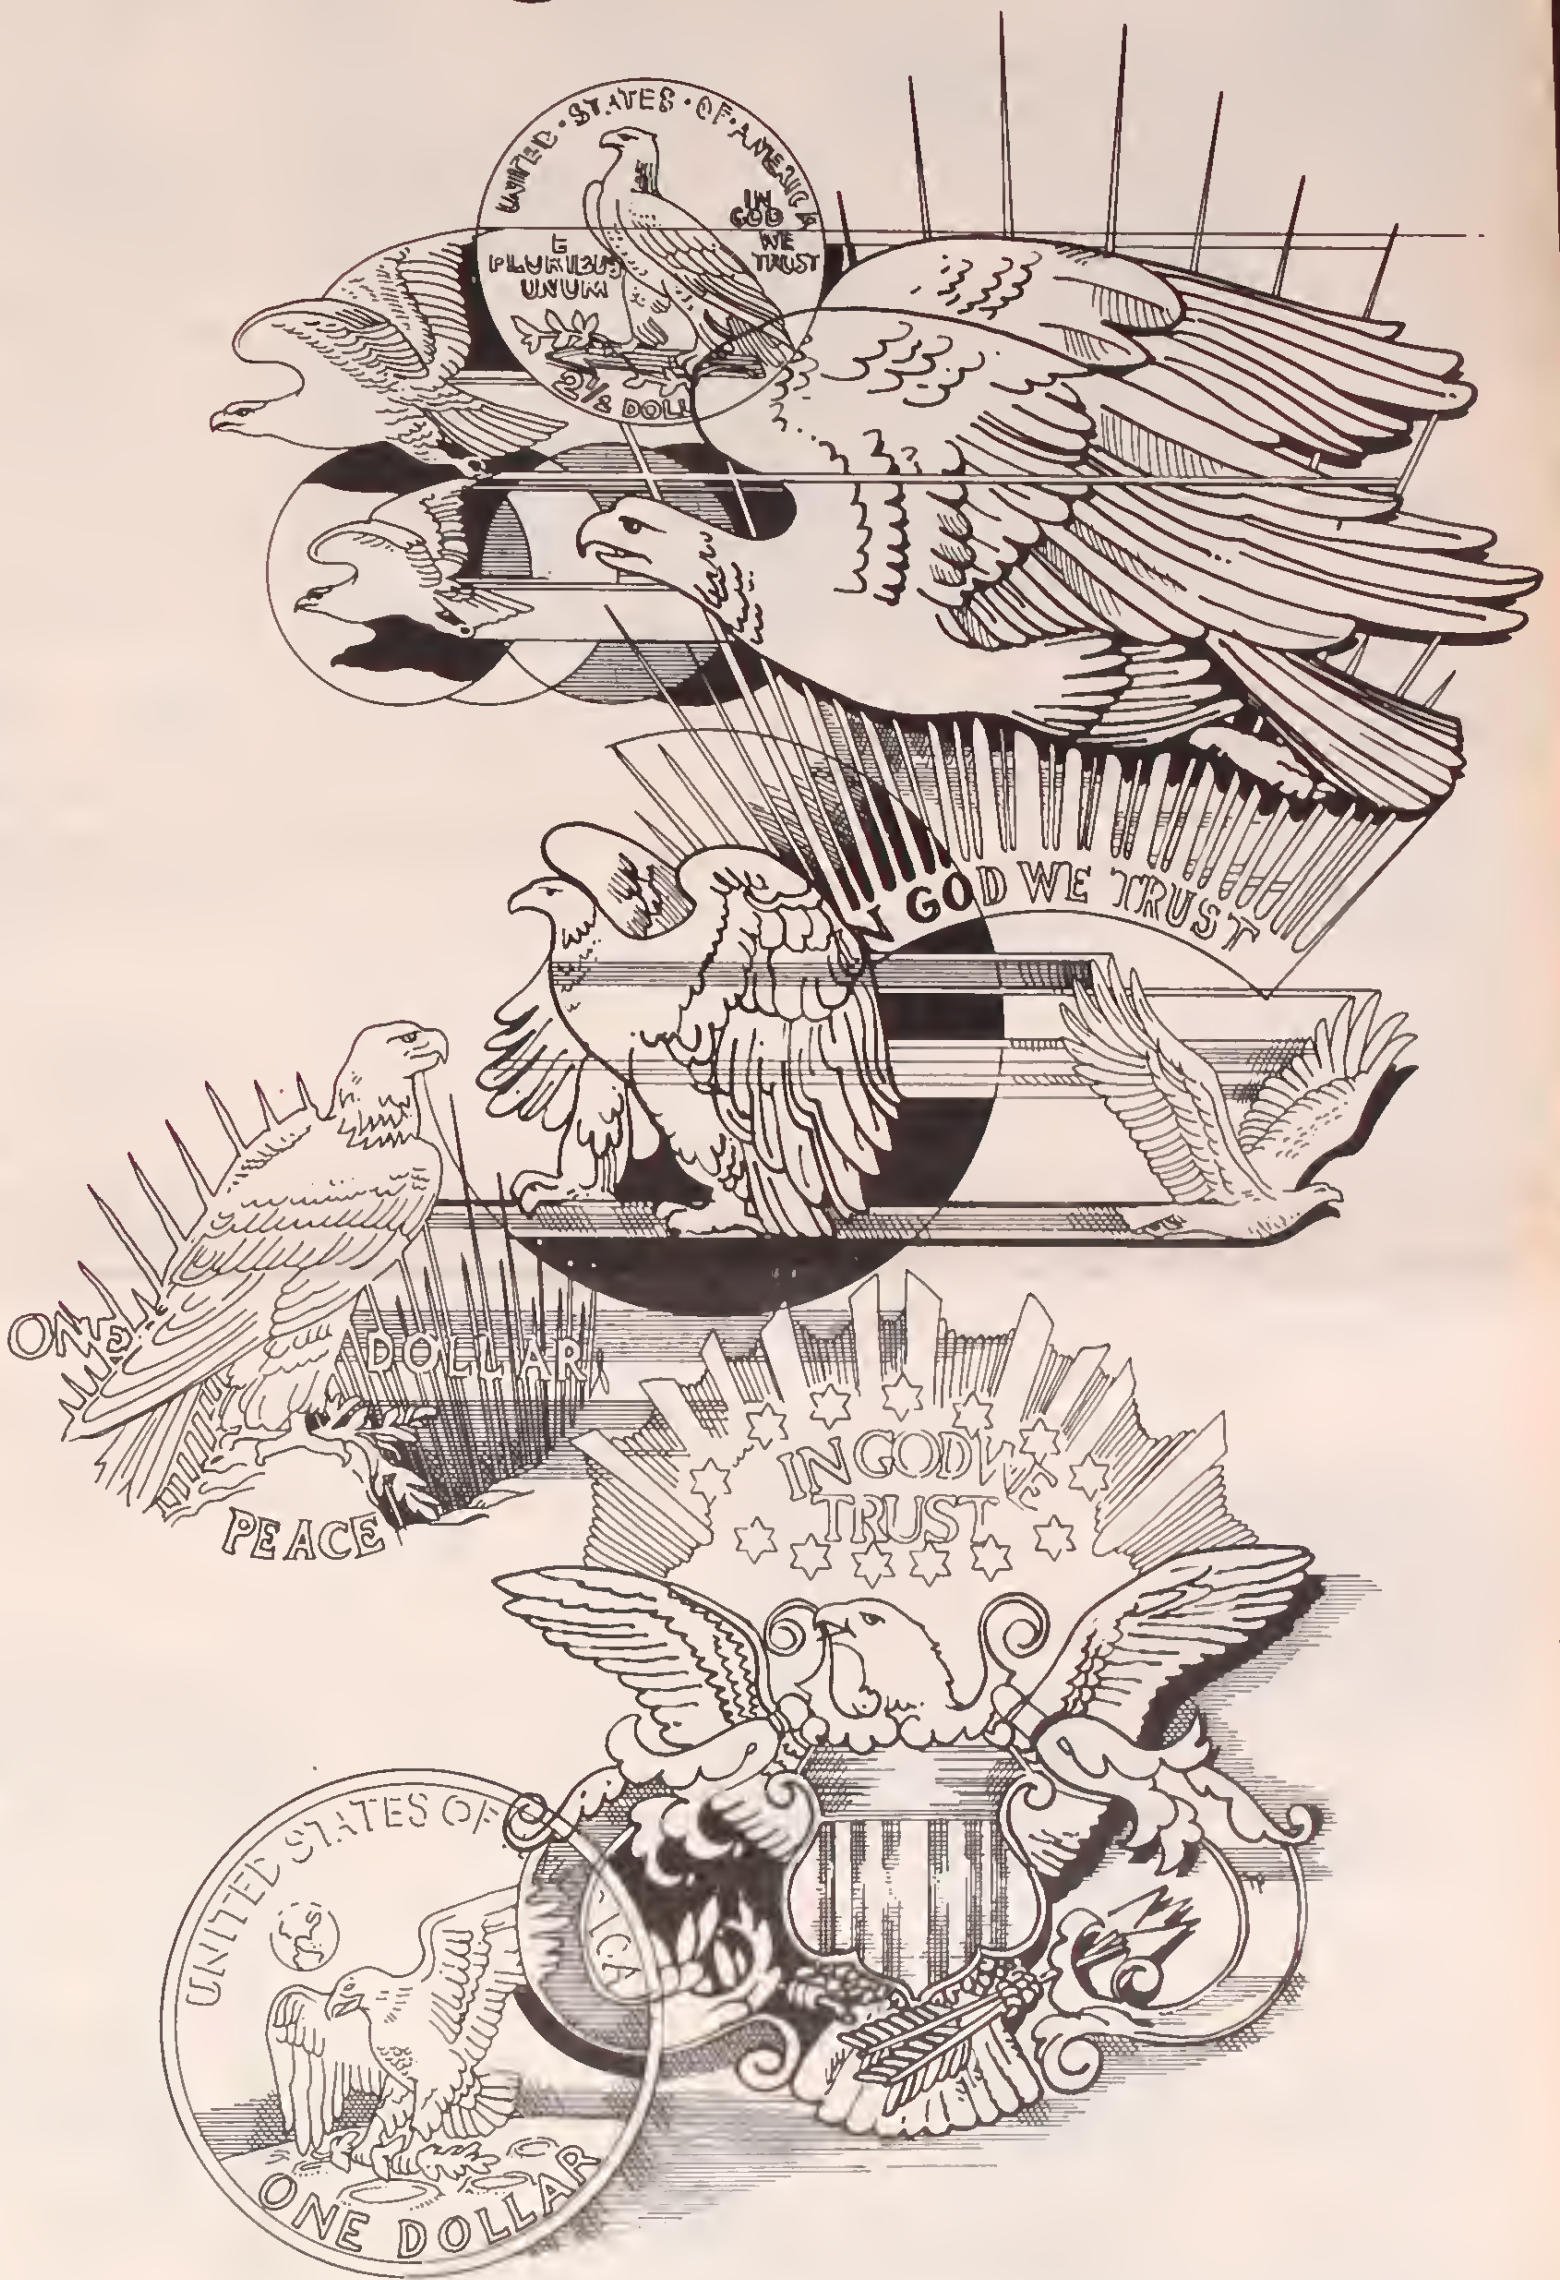

- The study and construction of a grade separated interchange at Clarksville (Route 1 and Province Line Road); and

- the purchase of additional busses and upgrading the County mass transit system.

- The improvement of the Greenwood Avenue and Barlow Street circles, including the Route 1 Interchange to facilitate access to the Trenton Railroad Station.

MEET OLD FRIENDS
In "Hay Fever." Seven members of the cast of McCarter's final production of the season, Noel Coward's "Hay Fever," have appeared in other plays this year, and some of the actors have been in all six. The play will open next Friday, April 4, playing through April 20.

McCarter has invited Celeste Holm, renowned as a theatre personality and winner of many awards in acting and the theatre, to join the rest of the company for this final production. She will play Judith Bliss, at whose country home in England the wild comings and goings of Coward's comedy take place.

Stephen Stout, who will be Simon Bliss, is one who has been in every play of the 1979-80 season. He was The Angel in "The Visions of Simone Machard; "Andrew Lynch in "All the Way Home;" Cleante in "The Miser;" Cletis in "1959 Pink Thunderbird" and a Jumper in "Jumpers."

Another who has played in all six is Leslie Geraci. She was Simone herself; Sally Follet in "All the Way Home," the secretary in "Jumpers" Elise in "The Miser" and Amy Lee in "Thunderbird." In "Hay Fever," she will be Jackie.

Anne Sheldon Back. Anne Sheldon was Madame Machard and Aunt Hannah in "All the Way Home." She has been assigned the part of Clara in "Hay Fever." G Wood, who will portray David Bliss, has been in "Simone Machard" (he was Pere Gustave); John Henry Follet in "All the Way Home;" Crouch in "Jumpers" and Master Jacques in "The Miser."

John Mansfield, who was Roy in "Thunderbird," will be Sandy Tyrell in the Noel Coward play. He was Valere in "The Miser." Jill Tanner and Jay Doyle were both in "The Miser" and Jay was also in "All the Way Home" and "Machard," in addition to portraying Archie in "Jumpers."

The newcomer to the cast, besides Celeste Holm, will be Harriet Hall. She has been on McCarter's stage, however, playing the title role in "Major Barbara" for three performances three years ago.

"Hay Fever" will serve as a benefit for Ewing Township Republicans. The performance of Saturday, April 19, has been designated a benefit performance, and those who would like to attend are asked to make reservations before April 1, with Mary Ann McKee, 882-0293, or

PLAY HITS THE ROAD

For Shows in Two Prisons. "Lone Star," the first part of McCarter Theatre's "1959 Pink Thunderbird," has been presented within the past week at two maximum security prisons in the area. John Mansfield, Bruce Somerville and Stephen Stout of the McCarter production were members of the cast.

Nagle Jackson, who directed "Thunderbird," tells how it happened: "I was sitting in a 'Lone Star' rehearsal listening to that marvelously masculine, bawdy play and it suddenly occurred to me that a prison audience would love this play ... it was made for them ... I mentioned it to the cast, and they were so enthusiastic that I decided to pursue it.

"I have been wanting to find ways that McCarter Theatre can serve the community outside our own four walls. Prisons need activities so badly because they are neglected, or they get a lot of second-rate stuff ... You are dealing with an audience that does not have that much theatre experience, so you don't want to present anything that's difficult or is going to turn them off. And you certainly don't want to present anything that's going to bore them -- that's all they need! A play like 'Lone Star' is just perfect."

This portion of "Thunderbird" is a comedy of Texas manners in which the audience meets, laughs at and anguishes with three men drinking beer behind a tavern in Maynard, Tx.

"Lone Star" was given on Tuesday, March 18, for 500 inmates of Rahway State Prison in New Jersey, and on March 19 for an audience of 80 in Bucks County Prison, Doylestown, Pa.

TWO, ON SCREEN

At Playhouse. In "The Electric Horseman," Robert Redford is an ex-champion rodeo rider who kidnaps a multi-million-dollar horse, and Jane Fonda is the network reporter who follows him to find out why.

In "Ice Castles," Lynn-Holly Johnson (a former member of the Ice Capades) is a small-town teenager plucked from obscurity and trained for the Olympics. Robby Benson is the hometown boyfriend who takes charge of her rehabilitation when a tragic accident leaves her blind at the height of her career.

Both films will play the Playhouse starting this Thursday and continuing through Wednesday, April 2.

NEW SEASON PLANNED

In New Brunswick. A six-play season for 1980-81 has been announced for the George Street Playhouse in New Brunswick. The professional theatre, under the direction of Eric Krehs, is offering a subscription to the series for almost half the regular single ticket price. The Playhouse is located at 414 George Street in New Brunswick.

"Death of a Salesman," the Arthur Miller classic, will open the Playhouse's seventh season on September 26. It will be followed on October 31 by the world premiere of a suspense comedy, "Parley-Parley" by David Richmond, who wrote "Passion of Dracula."

"Purlie," a gospel musical based on the play "Purlie Victorious," will open December 7 at the Crossroads Theatre, a black professional theatre operating under the wing of the Playhouse.

"Viaduct," a drama of a British working-class family, will have its regional theatre debut on January 16. Aileen Malcolm is the playwright.

"Candida," George Bernard Shaw's comedy, will open February 20. The final production of the season will be the William Gibson comedy-drama, "Two for the Seesaw." It is scheduled to open March 27, 1981.

Each production will play for four weeks, Tuesdays through Sundays, with matinees each Sunday at 3 and Saturdays at 4.

ANOUHIL'S 'ANTIGONE'

At Intime. Jean Anouilh's re-interpretation of the Greek myth of Antigone will be on the Murray Theatre stage in April in a production staged by Princeton University's Theatre Intime. It will open the week-end of April 10-13, playing again April 17-19, 24-26.

Correction

The fee for the "Welcome to Spring" Dance workshop to be led by Esther Seligmann this Saturday from 10:30 to 1 at 185 Nassau Street is $10, not $25.

Checks may be made out to New Jersey Designer Craftsmen, co-sponsor of the program with the Princeton University Creative Arts Program, and mailed to Martha Wright, 84 Maclean Circle

The director will be Lisa Fisher, formerly general manager of Theatre Intime, who directed Tennessee Williams' "Twenty-seven Wagons of Cotton" last year. She served as an apprentice in the fall of 1979 with the National Theatre Institute.

Antigone will be played by Kellie Easterling, who was Juliet in Intime's "Romeo and Juliet," and played also in "The Good Person of Szeschan." Phil Babcock, who was Romeo, and also played the part of Don Baker in Intime's "Butterflies are Free," will portray Creon. Wendy Saivetz, whom Theatre Intime audiences will remember in "Patience" and "House of Blue Leaves," has been assigned the role of Jocaste.

Ritts' Puppet Family Will Be Honored Guests At Free Children's Concert Sunday Afternoon

Youth will play to youth when the young musicians of the Mercer County Symphony Orchestra Symphonette give their annual free children's concert Sunday at 2 in the Kirby Arts Center, Lawrenceville School.

Magnolia the Ostrich, the Abominable Snowman and Flam the Flamingo will take part in the concert, introduced by puppeteers Paul and Mary Ritts. (See cover picture.) Others on the program will be dancers from the Princeton Ballet and Gordon Myers, professor of music at Trenton State College.

members of the Princeton Ballet under the direction of Audree Estey.

Young musicians in the Mercer County Symphony are directed by Matteo Giammario, and they perform music chosen by Dr. Giammario to provide a challenge to the musicians, and to acquaint them -- and their young audiences -- with the masterpieces that have been written for orchestra. The Symphonette, a smaller group selected from the major orchestra, usually plays selections in a lighter vein.

Great Silence" and "Albert the Magnificent," in which the Ritts puppets have appeared.

At present, the puppets appear in a series of consumer spots on television, designed to show children how to be wiser consumers.

The Princeton Ballet, which has over 900 students and a teaching faculty of 18, is one of seven companies in the country to be named "major companies."

Dr. Myers was a soloist for ten years with Noah Greenberg's Pro Musica. He has recorded several works, and produced a concert of humorous songs, "The Art of Belly Canto," which won a radio and television award in 1977. He was the narrator for "Tubby the Tuba" in a Mercer County Symphony Orchestra children's concert last year.

The program will consist of Kleinsinger's "The Story of Celeste," to be narrated by Dr. Myers; Villa-Lobos' "The Little Train of Caipira" and the second act of Delibes' ballet, "Coppelia," danced by

MUSIC In Princeton

QUINTET TO PERFORM
 Contemporary Music. The Friends of Music and the Princeton University Music Department will present the Emmanuel Wind Quintet on Friday, April 4, in two events. There will be an afternoon performance-colloquium of Schoenberg's Quintet, with Prof. Milton Babbitt, speaker at 3, and an evening concert at 8:30. Both events will be held in Woolworth Center, and are open to the public, admission free.

The Emmanuel Wind Quintet was formed in 1975 to prepare and perform Schoenberg's monumental Wind Quintet. Since that time it has performed extensively in Boston, New York and the New England area. The Emmanuel concentrates its performances on wind quintet compositions of the 20th century.

The Quintet is based in Boston; three of its members are graduates of the New England Conservatory and all of them have long and distinguished records as solo artists, teachers and as members of orchestras and other chamber music ensembles. The Emmanuel has been nominated for a Naumberg Award and has been recognized as one of the finest groups of its kind in the country.

The program for the evening concert will be: Hindemith: "Kleine Kammermusik" (1922); Irving Fine: Partita for Wind Quintet (1948); Elliott Carter: Woodwind Quintet (1948) and John Harbison's Quintet (1978).

GERMAN CHOIR TO SING
 At Choir College. A varied program of music from the old classics to "Carmina Burana" of Orff and American folksongs will be presented in Bristol Chapel on the campus of Westminster Choir College by the "Bad Ems Chor" on Tuesday at 8:30. The public is invited without charge.

Bad Ems is a spa in the Rhineland district between Frankfurt and Bonn in West Germany. Its choir of young people between 16 and 24 is an exchange group with Neshaminy High School in Langhorne, Pa. and is sponsored by them. The choir, directed by Willi Becker, will appear also at the Academy of Music in Philadelphia; Kennedy Center in Washington D.C.; Trinity Church, New York; and at Gettysburg College in Pennsylvania.

BLEGEN AT McCARTER
 Standing Room Only. Soprano Judith Blegen of the Metropolitan Opera will make her McCarter Theatre recital debut Tuesday, April 8, as part of the Music-at-McCarter series. Standing room only is available from the McCarter box-office.

With Martin Katz at the piano, she will open her program with Handel's "Oh, Had I Jubal's Lyre," followed by two groups of songs by Hugo Wolf and Richard Strauss. With violinist Raymond Gniwew, concertmaster of the Metropolitan Opera orchestra, Ms. Blegen will sing Mozart's concert aria "Non temer, amato bene" and Alan Hovhaness' "Hercules." Mr.

SPOOF ON SMITH SET

As Benefit Cabaret. Rehearsals are in full gear for "Tom Foolery," the Cabaret Revue which the Princeton Area Smith College Club will present at the Nassau Inn on April 12 to benefit the college's scholarship fund. The original music and comedy for the show are by Roo Brown and Joe Bolster III.

Roo Brown's musical experiences run the gamut, from her thesis on "Stravinsky's Something-Else-Other" at Smith College to original music and lyrics for productions at Miss Mason's School, to the musical direction of the legendary Inn Cabaret. Her theatrical background has included everything from Rally Day Shows at Smith to major roles in seven PJ&B productions. She has also directed "Oliver" and "Oklahoma" at Washington's Crossing Park.

Co-author and comedian Joe Bolster is the oldest son of Joe and Tink Boster of Parkside Drive. He has played in shows from Miami to Ottawa.

"Tom Foolery" is described as "an affectionate look at college life through the crossed eyes of an alumna of 25 years." The Smith Club will also have The Northampton Choral Society performing its own consciousness-raising version of "Clair De Lune." The Society will be conducted by Frau Sheila Sullivan, guest conductor from the Princeton Ratskellar.

In addition, Sheila MacNeille will sing about her experiences, and Ted McCabe will play himself. Jane Sehmman, former Director of Admissions at Smith will play the role of job applicant to Neil Bull's vocational guidance counselor.

The Smith cast of near and far relations includes Fred and Roo Brown; Ted, Susie and Chris McCabe; Jerry, Sheila and Alisa MacNeille; Jerry, Sue, Mac and Rocky Mould; Joe, John, Peggy, Richard and Libby Bolster, Marge, Kathy and Amy Smith; Noel and Liz White; Sheila Sullivan, Roxanne Sly, Jane Sehmman, Bonnie Helms, Elliott Arensmeyer, Marilyn Weyland, Neil Bull and Tim Platt. The show features Peter Wright at the piano.

Behind the scenes personnel are Marilyn Weyland (stage manager), Rose Mary Hagios and Pat Casserly (sets), Nancy Myers (props), Martha Wickenden (costumes) and Marge Smith (cast party).

Smith Club administrative chairmen for "Tom Foolery" are Barbara Berglund, Sheila Sullivan, Sue Mould, Carol Morrison Willson, Joan White, Bobbie Fendrich, Rose Mary Hagios, Noel White, Pandy Goodbody, Bonnie Helms, Ann Joyce and Tink Bolster.

Performances in the Prince William Room at the Nassau Inn will be at 8:30 and 10:30 on Saturday, April 12. Tickets are available at $10 apiece from Joan White at 921-3730. Space is limited.

IN RETROSPECT

The Work of John Folinsbee. Although the quality of a painting is determined by the artist's ability to communicate without the support of language or history, there is more to a work of art than what appears when it is seen alone. When a painting is studied in conjunction with other works by the same artist, it is possible to enjoy and appreciate it in an entirely different manner, since some of the artist's creative processes which are revealed in a collection are not apparent in a single work.

A retrospective exhibition, one that spans the entire artistic life of a painter, allows an even greater understanding of the genesis of style and enables the viewer to appreciate a painting for its developmental role as well as its artistic merit. The opportunity to see a painting in the contexts of artistic growth enhances the work and makes looking at it a more complex and meaningful experience. A retrospective display also offers the viewer some insight into the artistic process when it evidences the growth and stylistic alteration that an artist experiences.

The retrospective of John Folinsbee's paintings at the Western Electric Gallery on Carter Road is no exception. An extensive collection of the artist's work, spanning 50 years, exhibits Folinsbee's development as an artist and also mirrors some of the changes that took place in American painting during his career.

'LURGEN ROAD,' painted in 1937 in Bucks County just north of New Hope, is a part of the exhibition of the works of the late John Folinsbee now on view at Western Electric on Carter Road.

Folinsbee reflected his era in a conservative fashion. At any point in his career, his work was to be found to the artistic right of the creative vanguard. He did pass through many different phases, however, and these phases were in tune with the art of the time.

Lived in New Hope. Folinsbee was one of the artists who located along the Delaware in New Hope, early in this century, and helped to shape it into a well-known artists' colony. His early work was a product of his artistic heritage. Rather than break with tradition, he painted in the manner of the American impressionists, combining broken color and eloquent brushwork with a muted palette. Subtle color characterizes his early work in which the impressionist technique is developed to a high art.

In the early paintings that are included in this collection, we are able to understand Folinsbee's artistic beginnings and, at the same time, are presented with an exceptionally fine example of the impressionist tradition. The artist has taken sufficient liberty with form and color so that we are aware of the interpretive and expressive nature of his paintings at the same time that we note that he has kept his images.

A painterly application of color further enriches the effect of the work. The earliest painting in the collection, a representation of a mother and child, would fall into the category of an ignorable cliché if it were not for the quality of the presentation.

Well designed space is presented, using brushwork and color that is so finely developed that it makes this an uncommon work of art. Literal images are enhanced by color use that presents the viewer with all of the hidden tonal richness that is apparent to the painter's eye.

A Somber Palette. The lightness and soft color in this painting contrast with many of his other early paintings which are equally well rendered using deep tones and a somber palette. In these works, combinations of color and light are used to build form.

There are also several early landscapes that use a lighter, somewhat brighter palette. The color here is still subtle, often muted, but endowed with a gentleness and softness which captures the lyrical nature of the landscape.

In mid-career, during the 1930s, the artist's work, like that of his contemporaries, became more expressionistic. Intense color replaced the muted palette of earlier works and Folinsbee developed a harsher manner of presenting his subject.

The rich, elegant brushwork of the earlier paintings gave way to a more vigorous method of applying the paint. The artist began to develop more concern for volume and, in this work and the work that followed, we can observe form being considered for its own sake. There is an angularity and a planar feeling to these paintings that marks the beginning of the artist's search for more complex modes of expression.

The later works continue to evidence the vigor and energy of the Middle period. Folinsbee changes his palette from the harsh greens and intense color of the expressionistic work to darker, colder tones that are dominated by various greys. The image retains its importance in these later paintings, but there is a concern with movement and the interaction of surface and line that demonstrates the artist's growing feeling for space and design elements other than the nature of his subject.

Folinsbee received a good deal of recognition for his work. His paintings are included in the collections of the Corcoran Gallery, the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts, the National Academy of Design and the Phillips Gallery.

Two Scrimmages This Week for PHS in Lacrosse Before Season Opens Next Week against Pingry

"We're behind in field experience because of graduation and the weather but we're ahead in the knowledge and understanding of what has to be done. The test is yet to come."

The test Princeton High School lacrosse coach Bill Cirullo has in mind will come this Wednesday when his mostly young and inexperienced squad will scrimmage a strong Boonton team. On Saturday, the Little Tigers will scrimmage an even stronger Montclair team, a perennial state power.

Starting his seventh year at the helm, Cirullo admits that he "doesn't have much time to whip a team into shape" before the season's opener against Pingry next Wednesday in Elizabeth. PHS will open at home the following Wednesday against Peddie.

"Boonton is going to be tough," said Cirullo. "The kids haven't played side by side yet. They haven't experienced the pain of losing. I don't know what to expect."

Although graduation cut heavily into the ranks, Cirullo sees this as one possible advantage. Aside from four sure returning starters -- middy Steve Budd, Chris Harford on attack, defenseman Chris Gabrielsen and goalie Mark Miller -- "you're talking about filling 15 positions. It's a dogfight out there for those spots," he said, among the remaining 53-member squad.

On defense the only other experienced player returning beside Gabrielsen is senior Ted Vial, who is starting his third year on the team but saw limited varsity action last year of spring. The remaining candidates are up from the jayvees

At midfield, which figures prominently in Cirullo's concept of the game, "we have a long list -- of one" he quipped Budd, a junior, and a good one, will be the mainstay in the midfield.

Other candidates include junior Steve McDonald, last year's faceoff man, and senior Ian Broadwater, a solid player (over 200 pounds) who was injured early and didn't play as much as expected. "Now he's healthy and he's tough when he wants to be," said Cirullo.

Senior Sean Keenan and Tony Cedeno, a junior, are up from the reserve squad.

Two to Anchor Attack. Anchoring the attack will be two seniors, Harford, who played all last year, and Alex Versfeld, the number four attack from the 1979 team. Commented Cirullo, "I have a lot of confidence in those two young men."

Returning at goal will be senior Mark Miller. Last year, he shared part of the goal tending with Geoff Shipman as the two waged a season-long battle for the starting role. This year, Miller will have to be self-motivating," said Cirullo.

By necessity, Cirullo reported that he is going to take a good look at some 10 freshmen on the squad. He has three really fine freshmen candidates, he said, who already possess some good stick skills.

"Once you pull a freshman up you can't send him back, so there's a lot of decision-making ahead," he said. Two or three sophomores, he added, are trying hard to win a starting assignment at attack. "It's a very competitive situation."

In previous seasons, PHS had built winning records on a strong midfield lines. "If you have the horses in the midfield, you're in good shape," Cirullo commented. "They work both ends of the field; if the attack can't take care of the scoring, the middies will."

So the lack of experience in the midfield has to be a concern of Cirullo. "There are a lot of question marks," he conceded. "Trying to coordinate who goes where, who does what. Trying to get the best out of my personnel."

Schedule Is Thin. If Cirullo had one gripe about last year -- aside from not winning more games -- it was the schedule. Only 11 contests last year. Normally, PHS has about 14 opponents, he said.

The Little Tigers did pick up one new opponent this year with the addition of North Hunterdon to make it an even dozen. Cirullo reported that the school athletic director had called some 15 to 20 schools in Pennsylvania to try for more games but they were already locked into schedules. Next year, he expects the Little Tigers to pick up additional opponents.

Rutgers University senior Nick Patoulo, who is doing his student teaching in phys ed at PHS, is serving as Cirullo's assistant this year.

SPORTS In Princeton

HOME OPENER NEXT
For Tigers in Lacrosse. The Princeton University lacrosse team, 1-1 on the season, will play its first game here this Wednesday afternoon at 3:30 on Finney Field against Franklin & Marshall. The Tigers trounced this opponent from Lancaster, Pa., last year, 14 to 5.

Coach Mike Hanna's team brought its record even with the .500 mark Saturday in Hofstra, L.I., with a highly-competent 15-9 conquest of Duke. The game was played there to further interest in the sport on Long Island, to which the Tigers will return this weekend for their annual meeting with highly-rated Johns Hopkins.

Princeton took care of Duke in a hurry, rolling out to an 8-1 lead before the first period ended and scoring twice more before the Blue Devils added a pair that made the half-time score 10-3. It was 14-5 by the time the third period was over, with Hanna substituting freely throughout the second half.

Sophomore midfielder Steve Delligatti opened the scoring at 3:04 of the first quarter, with senior Bob Thomas producing the first of his six goals at 6:29. The veteran attackman scored in every period and added an assist to pace the victors' improving offense.

Heubeck Eyes Record. Co-captain Dave Heubeck had a three-goal, four-assist afternoon. With 128 points in his first three seasons here, he stands fifth on the all-time scoring ladder at Princeton and may finish his career on top.

Tiger goalie Peter Cordrey was credited with 18 saves. The triumph was Princeton's third over the North Carolina team in four meetings.

Saturday's games against Johns Hopkins, to be played at Manhasset, L.I., will be part of a doubleheader, with a pair of high school teams facing each other before the intercollegiate contest. There are 10 Long Island players

Solid Infield at Princeton High School Ready To Provide Support for Strong Pitching Staff

"The infield is one of our strong points," Princeton High baseball coach Jim O'Neill remarked last week, and that, together with a solid pitching staff, is why O'Neill is looking forward to the start of the season next week.

The inner defense will be anchored by three-year veteran Brent Robinson at short, a .300-plus hitter and a good glove man. "He's learned so much about the game," said O'Neill. "He's willing to take charge. He's come a long way."

Robinson has a good, accurate arm and after a year's seasoning in American Legion ball during the summer, O'Neill reports he gets a better jump on the ball and has an improved range.

With the graduation of veteran Dave Reed at second base, O'Neill remarked that he had been concerned about filling the vacancy. He isn't any more.

Versatile Mark Adams, who was a catcher last year because O'Neill had no one else to do the job, will take over. "He's as good as anybody in the County," said O'Neill.

"He's a speed demon. Whatever's hit, he's got the range to cover it and he can turn the quick double play," O'Neill continued. Like Robinson, Adams, said O'Neill, has benefited from a year's play in Legion action and is a .300 hitter.

Toss-Up at Third. Third base is a toss-up -- for the present. Frank Whittaker is probably the best at the position -- he played there last year -- but he's also, said O'Neill, "our best first baseman. He's got great hands, he stretches easily ... the first baseman handles the ball more than anybody else and we need good hands at that position."

If Whittaker plays first, senior John Tevebaugh may play third. "He's been hitting the ball so well that we've got to get him into the lineup and the place to do it is third base," said O'Neill.

Still another possibility at first is John Kandell. Kandell has played the position before but alternated between centerfield and the pitcher's mound last year.

"He's probably our best hitter," said O'Neill. With his silky swing, Kandell is also the club's best long-ball hitter. He'll probably end up in the outfield again because "if we have a weakness, that's it," said O'Neill.

STRENGTH DOWN THE MIDDLE: Princeton High catcher Dan Miller (center) is flanked by veteran Mark Adams (left), who will play second, and by shortstop Brent Robinson. Little Tigers open next Wednesday against Lawrenceville.

O'Neill describes sophomore Kevin Phox as "the leading candidate for center field. He gets the best jump on the ball, has good range and a good, strong arm." What Phox doesn't have is experience, but O'Neill reports he is working hard to get ready.

Kandell will probably patrol left field and O'Neill says he will use one of his hitting pitchers in right when they are not on the mound...probably Judd Petrone or Peter Krasnoff.

A Dark Horse. Other potential candidates include junior John Pirone, Leroy Hunninghake and Jeff Bergman. A dark horse says O'Neill, of Bergman.

"He's as fast as anybody on the team. He's unorthodox but he gets to the ball. He has a strong arm but he needs to be more accurate. He could move into any position."

A senior out for the first time, whom O'Neill admiringly calls "a kid with all heart" is Kyung Kim. Says O'Neill, "he has a very strong arm and he gets to everything but he has little experience." His main contribution will probably be as a relief pitcher, he said.

Another utility outfielder is senior Frank Delneso. A utility infielder is Greg Hamer, a senior. "Most any year he'd be a starter," said O'Neill, who added that Hamer will still see a lot of work. "He's a very respectable ball player." Hamer did get some varsity playing time in last year at third base.

Catching is another plus for the Little Tigers this year -- junior Dan Miller is entrenched behind the bat. "The most improved kid on the team. I couldn't be happier with the way he's come around," said O'Neill. "He hustles, works on fundamentals, is quicker and more confident. It's great to see a kid improve like he has."

Opener Next Wednesday. PHS will open a 21-game schedule next Wednesday against Lawrenceville School in Lawrenceville. How will PHS do? Will it live up to the expectations O'Neill has for the team?

"When you go through the whole lineup, we match up with everyone," said O'Neill. As far as the Colonial Valley Conference title is concerned, he said that Notre Dame has to be considered the favorite. "They won it the last two years and have everybody back."

"Hightstown should be stronger," O'Neill continued, "and I know that West Windsor expects to be respectable. McCorristin has a good double-play combination back and a good catcher returning..."

After the first month of play, however, O'Neill predicts that Notre Dame, Hightstown, McCorristin -- and Princeton High -- will be fighting it out for the CVC lead.

each on the Princeton and Johns Hopkins rosters. The Bluejays won last year's game, 14 to 2. The Orange and Black has not beaten this foe since 1966.

HUN HAS HITTING
Pitching the Key. Surveying his team's prospects this year, Hun baseball coach Bill McQuade reported, "We're set pretty much everywhere except for pitching."
As McQuade knows, that is a big exception. "You live and die with pitching," he said. Last year, Hun with two standout post-graduate students on the mound was cruising along with an 11-3 record. Then one, Jeff Catelli got into trouble and was suspended from school. That put an extra burden on Arvie Powell, Hun's other stopper.

"When we lost Catelli, we lost the heart of our team," recalled McQuade. "It put too much of a burden on Powell and he developed a sore arm." Hun went on to lose five of its last six, ending with an 11-9 mark.
"We have the hitters," said McQuade of the 1980 21-game season. "Probably the most solid lineup, top to bottom, we've ever had. It will be a question of being able to hold the other team down."

Tough Schedule. The schedule is a tough one, probably the toughest, says McQuade, since he's been at Hun. The former Princeton High baseball captain and Juniata standout is starting his ninth year as coach.
"We'll be playing two and three games a week," McQuade said. "It will be a big burden on the pitching staff. That's the key. Can (Keith) Duvin come through and pitch every third game? Can Bevo (Anthony Bevilacqua) come through with an adequate replacement at short when he pitches?"

Among its opponents, Hun will play Lawrenceville and Peddie twice, Group 4 Hamilton High and such Colonial Valley Conference teams as Princeton High, McCorristin, Hopewell Valley, West Windsor and Lawrence. "We play about everyone in the CVC except Notre Dame," said McQuade.
Team co-captains are Angelo Barbero and Tommy Zahn. Starting his fourth year, Barbero has been a catcher, outfielder, infielder and pitcher.

last year and then switched to third. This year, McQuade will call on him to do some pitching as well. "He'll play anywhere," said McQuade of Barbero, who batted close to .300 last year.

Zahn led the team in hitting last spring with a .330 average, resulting in an all-prep school team selection. A third-year starter, he'll play second.

Bevilacqua gained some renown three years ago when he broke into the starting lineup as a freshman. A good glove man (six errors last year), he has an outstanding arm and batted over .300. Because of that strong arm, McQuade is counting on the fast-balling Bevilacqua to take his turn in the pitching rotation.

Wheaton Breaks Wrist. Dave Wheaton is scheduled to return to first base. However, the two-year veteran broke his wrist during the winter and he is still wearing a cast. McQuade says he is hoping the .270 hitter can come back.

Third base is a toss-up between two seniors, Greg Otto, who played the position some last year, and Paul Summers. One will play and the other DH, said McQuade. Neither one hit that well last season but both are improving, he said.

Junior Rich Landis will return behind the plate. He should be a better hitter with more experience, predicted McQuade.

Other veterans on the club are senior Dave Iorio, who batted .260 last year but led the club with an on-base percentage of over .400, and senior Mark Repole, described by McQuade as "dedicated and hard-working."

A post-graduate student from Hopewell is Keith Greener, "who knows the game inside and out," says McQuade. "He's an excellent batter and will provide some solid, left-handed hitting. A big plus."

As for the suspect pitching, McQuade commented that aside from Duvin (4-3 last year) and Bevilacqua, it's up for grabs.

Candidates include junior righthander Nick Persichetti, up from the jayvee and untested; senior Eric Gokcen, Barbero and Repole. Repole has good control and will be used as a spot pitcher.

Newcomers include Rob Clark, a PG student who has not played the sport for several years but is fast and a quick learner, says McQuade; Dave Stout, a senior outfielder; three juniors, Bill Kostrub and Joe Royal, both utility infielders, and Criss Gross, who may fill in at first for Wheaton if the latter's hand does not heal in time.

Two sophomores with older brothers on the team are Timmy Landis and John Iorio. Landis is an infielder, a good defensive outfielder but weak at the plate.

Hun has pre-season

TRADITION DEFENDERS: Two members of the starting Princeton High tennis team who will try to preserve its record of never having lost to a Mercer County opponent are Roger Dinella (left), a senior and number three singles player, and junior Andy Goodyear, a number one doubles player.

scrimmages with Trenton High, Montgomery on Friday and South River on Monday. It opens next Thursday, April 3, at home against Pingry.

STATE TITLE IS GOAL
Of PHS Tennis Team. "We might be a little thinner on down from the seventh man, but I think our top seven is as strong as we've ever had. We're hoping for another state championship."

Joe Diefenbach, commenting on this season's outlook for the Princeton High tennis team, believes his Little Tigers this spring are stronger than last year's team which lost only one. "We're really strong in the singles," he said.

PHS won the NJSIAA Group 2 title last year for the third time in the last four but lost in its bid for a state crown when it was defeated by Cherry Hill East in the all-group finals. Cherry Hill went on to become the state public school champion. "We're looking forward to playing Cherry Hill again this year," remarked Diefenbach, now starting his fifth year as coach.

Around here, the Little Tigers are pre-eminent. "As far as I know, we've never lost to a Mercer County team," said Diefenbach.

Scott Clark 54-4. His optimism about this year is based on three proven singles players, led by Scott Clark. Clark is a story unto himself. In three years, his record is 54-4. Starting his senior year, Clark, says Diefenbach, "looks as strong as he ever did."

Playing number two will be Richard Diefenderfer, whom Diefenbach reports has improved a lot -- the result of playing during the winter. Roger Dinella, another senior, will be the number three singles.

Just how dominant the Little Tigers become will depend, says Diefenbach, on the doubles combinations. Three juniors returning include Andy Goodyear, a number one doubles player last year, and David Yim and Eric Granade, both of whom won letters but played less frequently than Goodyear. A new player who looks promising, says Diefenbach, is freshman Keith Goldfield.

Others contending for a berth in doubles play are senior Greg Rattray, junior Roger Carlson and a pair of sophomores, Michael Crystal and Steve Ellis.

Last season, PHS repeated as Colonial Valley Conference champion with a perfect league record, but every year, Diefenbach acknowledged, it gets a little tougher to stave off the frustrated opposition.

Diefenbach sees Hopewell Valley repeating as a serious challenger again in the CVC league--the Bulldogs pressed PHS to a 3-2 decision in one of their two meetings last year -- and predicts Lawrence and West Windsor will be stronger.

PHS will open its season next Wednesday, April 2, at home against Ewing.

BASEBALL TO BEGIN
At YMCA. YMCA baseball will offer two programs for boys and girls 5-12.

New this year is T-ball for children 5-8, a way of introducing younger children to the fundamentals of baseball. The ball is hit from a T-stand, and the game then plays like regular baseball. Games and practices will be on Saturday mornings at either 9 or 10, according to which time the parent chooses at registration.

Midget league baseball will again be held for boys and girls ages 9-12. Unlike many youth baseball leagues, midget baseball stresses good sportsmanship, fair play and skill development. Winning is one of the goals, but not the most important.

Each player receives a T-shirt to keep, plus a baseball uniform to wear during the season. The games and practices are played Monday through Thursday evenings for the four week season, with every team playing at least two games a week. The first workout will be April 12 when players will be evaluated and placed on a team. There are no cuts and everyone plays.

To register, call the YMCA, 924-4825, or come to the YM-YWCA Building, Paul Robeson Place.

STAFF NOW COMPLETE
Assistant Named In Football. Steve Schnall, defensive secondary coach for the past two seasons at William and Mary College and currently a member of the staff at East Carolina University, has been named defensive secondary coach and defensive coordinator at Princeton. He replaces Joe Pascale, who has accepted an assistant coaching position with the Montreal Alouettes of the Canadian Football League.

Schnall, 35, began his collegiate coaching career at Widener College in 1969. He served as defensive secondary and linebacker coach at the Pennsylvania school for the next two seasons before moving to Lafayette in 1971. Schnall remained at Lafayette for the next seven years and during that time coached the secondary and linebackers and also served as the squad's defensive coordinator.

In 1978 Schnall moved to William and Mary in the same capacity. His 1978 defensive secondary ranked fourth in the nation among Division I-A schools in pass defense, allowing just 95 yards per game. In 1979, the W&M secondary ranked 11th in the nation in pass defense.

Schnall is a 1965 graduate of Springfield College, where he received a bachelor of science degree in physical education and biology. While serving as a graduate assistant coach at the University of Connecticut, he received his master's degree in education administration. He was a starting defensive back with the Springfield football team in both 1963 and 1964.

TABLE TENNIS COMING
National Championships Due Here. Jadwin Gymnasium has been selected as the site for the June, 1981, U.S. Open Table Tennis Championships. It will be the first time the event has been held in New Jersey and is expected to be the largest of its kind ever staged.

More than 1,000 players will compete over a four-day period, with some 100 tables in use. Thirty-five separate championships are planned in a variety of class competitions for juniors, men and women.

Contestants will come from all parts of the United States, as well as from a number of foreign nations, possibly including Hungary, the current world champion, and China. A New Jersey high school tournament will be held during the spring, with the finals scheduled to take place in Jadwin at that time.

Since it was completed in 1969, Jadwin Gymnasium has become nationally known as the site of numerous tournaments in the racquet sports, and Princeton teams -- both men and women -- have won national titles in tennis and squash. Last month, the Michelob Light National Indoor Team Championships drew 16 of the nation's top college tennis teams here, and six days later, the national squash tournament held in Jadwin was the largest ever staged at one site.

SOCCER TO START
Program to Begin Saturday. The Princeton youth soccer program will begin Saturday at the Washington Road Fete Fields. Openings remain in most leagues and those interested in enrolling a player should call 924-8631.

Those who wish to coach to help and have not yet been contacted are asked to call the League Director. Instructional periods and competitive play will again feature special clinics by Martin Leyland and Richard Broad.

League Directors for this season are Frank Dyckman, 924-5613 for the Bantams (grades 1 and 2); Bill Dunham, 466-1525 for the Cubs

(grade 3); Frank Wayno, 921-1368 for the Juniors (grade 4); George Oliger, 799-1826 for the Intermediates (grade 5); and Peter Wepplo, 921-6208 for the Seniors (grades 6 and 7).

BALL TEAM 0 FOR 2

Against Weather Man. Twenty-four hours before it was scheduled to open its season on Clarke Field against the University of Massachusetts Saturday, the Princeton baseball team had only to take a quick look at the weather to know it would not be able to play.

So it departed by bus Saturday afternoon for the sunny south. It was sunny on Sunday in Richmond, Va., where the Tigers were waiting to play a game next day against Virginia Commonwealth. Next day, it rained.

Coach Len Rivers' team, badly in need of action outdoors, has now lost its first two games to the Weather Man. Rivers has a pair of promising pitchers in junior Mark Lockmeyer and sophomore Bob Holly, both quarterbacks on the football team, but he'd like to see what they can do against real live opposition.

Otherwise, he is well equipped with a fine catcher in Rod Shepard, but must field a number of inexperienced players at infield as well as outfield positions. Hitting is another question mark, and will remain that way at least for the first half-dozen games.

Weather permitting, the Tigers were scheduled to play Hampden-Sydney Tuesday and Richmond Wednesday. They will be in Williamsburg Thursday for a game with William & Mary and in Ashland Friday to meet Randolph-Macon.

Leaving Virginia that evening, the touring Princetonians will conclude their vacation schedule with a doubleheader Saturday against Catholic University in the nation's capital. Next week, Princeton will play the first game in the annual home-and-home series with Rutgers at New Brunswick on Wednesday. The home opener is now set for the following afternoon, April 3, against Montclair State, while Navy, defending champion in the Eastern League, will be at Clarke Field for two games on Saturday, April 5.

SPRING TENNIS CLASSES

April 7 to June 1. The Princeton Community Tennis Program's spring classes start April 7 and runs through June 1.

Both junior and adult instruction will be offered. Juniors can start as early as the third grade with the beginner class. Advanced beginner, intermediate and advanced classes are also available.

A special addition to the classes this spring will be the use of a video tape machine, which allows students to see their strokes played back on a screen.

Registrations are being accepted for all classes at the Tennis Office, 71 University Place. For applications or additional information, call 924-4343.

A Free Tennis Day will be held Saturday, from noon to 3 at the Princeton Indoor Tennis Center. Everyone is welcome.

TENNIS TEAMS PLANNED

For Spring Leagues. The Middle States Tennis Association will conduct a league team tennis program this spring. Beginning the middle of May, play will run for eight weeks.

Both men's and women's leagues will be offered, each divided into three levels of ability. Levels are based on the National Tennis Program's rating system. To determine your level, pick up a brochure describing them at the Youth Tennis Foundation, 71 University Place.

Similar leagues will be conducted in all the other United States Tennis Association regions. At the end of the eight-week season, playoffs will be held. Winners will go on to district playoffs and then to regional and national playoffs.

Requirements for joining the league are: being a member of the USTA, 21 or over, and meeting the appropriate ability level.

Those interested should call Rita Resnick, 882-6708, for the women's league, and Bill Hughes, 883-5768, for the men's.

PRINCETONIAN WINS

In Girls' Tennis Tournament. Irene Usiskin of Princeton won the 12-and-under girls' winter invitational tennis tournament last week in Pittsburgh. She defeated Karen Bergan of Cinnaminson, 6-1, 6-2, to capture her fourth straight Middle States tournament.

Geraldine Hirsh of Skillman finished in seventh place. Princeton area boys who participated in the 12-and-under division were Soffie Bacall, Quinton Kelly and Lyle Mendez.

FESTIVAL PLANNED

By International Center. A world's fair in miniature will be held at Princeton on Sunday, April 13, when the university's International Center stages its annual festival at the Student Center.

Students, faculty and visitors from more than 50 nations will take part in the festival, which will begin at 2 and last until midnight. The public is invited, and admission is free.

For the more than 700 Princeton University people who come from foreign lands, the festival offers a showcase of life in their own countries. Ethnic foods will be on sale throughout the day. There will be Turkish baklava, Middle Eastern cous cous, French pastries, Japanese sukiyaki, and chicken laced with the spices of Africa and Asia.

The music will be as varied as the food, with drummers from Africa and America, an Irish fiddler and American jazz. Dancers will come from Polynesia, the Philippines and the Middle East.

Art exhibits, craft demonstrations and slide and film presentations will portray life in various countries, including China, Germany, Israel and Korea. A Tae Kwan Do martial arts demonstration will feature black belts from Korea who are currently enrolled at Princeton.

The festival is sponsored by the International Center of Princeton University, which was established in 1974. The purpose of the Center is to provide the students, faculty and staff Princeton draws from other countries with a forum for introducing area residents to the arts and customs of their native lands. More than 1,000 persons attended last year's festival.

A HOST OF DAFFODILS

At Annual Show. The New Jersey Daffodil Society will hold its seventh annual Daffodil Show on Saturday, April 26 from 1-8 at Pierce Hall, Trinity Church, 33 Mercer Street.

Mrs. R. Kenneth Fairman, chairman, has announced that 12 American Daffodil Society ribbons will be awarded, as well as the silver tray for Best in Show, which was donated by the Princeton Savings and Loan Association. This is also a National Council Standard

Teen Council Open House

Middle school students from all Princeton schools are invited to an Open House Friday from 7:30-10:30 at the YM-YWCA Building, Paul Robeson Place.

There will be a D.J. and records, a game room, and a snack bar as well as the movie, "The Sting." Tickets will be sold in the schools for 75 cents and admission at the door will be $1.

The event is sponsored by the Middle School Princeton Community Teen Council, which has worked this school year to start to meet some of the needs of middle school students. The Open House is its first middle school event.

Flower Show, and the Creativity Award will be given.

All amateur growers are eligible to enter any of the 103 classes which include single blooms, collections, and arrangement classes. Schedules and entry cards may be obtained from Mrs. John C. Diethenn, 50 Allison Road.

Twelve New Jersey garden clubs are sponsoring the show. Included from this area are Stony Brook Garden Club, Garden Club of Princeton, Contemporary Garden Club, Dogwood Garden Club, Hopewell Valley Garden Club and Lawrenceville Garden Club.

SWIM CLASSES LISTED

At YMCA. The YMCA has swim classes for every level of ability, every member of the family and every age group, beginning with six months.

There are parent-child classes and lessons for preschool children, grade school children and adults. Special classes are provided for advanced aquatics skills such as senior lifesaving, competitive swimming and basic rescue and water safety. In order to facilitate transportation and save gas by bringing more than one child at a time, many levels of grade school swim classes will be taught at the same time on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday.

New this year is a program for summer backyard pool lessons for which the YMCA provides the certified instructor who comes to the home to teach swimming. The homeowner provides the pool and friends or neighbors for the lessons.

Registration is underway for this and other YMCA programs, and a brochure is available at the YW-YMCA building, Paul Robeson Place, 924-4825.
